Carpenters' Strike May Be Continued Despite Pay Offer

Union Meeting Will Consider Stipulations by Contractors

Despite an offer by Victoria contractors yesterday to pay the 15-cents-an-hour increase asked by the carpenters, indications last night were that the strike, now in its third week, would continue.

In making the offer, contractors stipulated that the union must amend its rules governing trade practices and jurisdictional disputes.

MEETING TODAY

Union officials said last night that a meeting would be held to discuss the new offer at 2 p.m. today but they indicated there was little chance the strike would end. They are seeking a meeting with contractors to clarify yesterday's proposals for settlement.

WANTS OUTLINE

George Whesion, president of the Builders' Exchange, said contractors considered the conditions under which carpenters worked should be fully outlined in the working agreement. In the past, he said, contractors had signed agreements only to find that union by-laws and regulations of the union's international office were brought into force to bring in rules and regulations not provided for in the agreement.

Decision to pay the 15 cents an hour requested by the union, contractors said, followed action taken by the labor relations board. They suggested the board had exceeded its authority in suggesting that union demands for increases be met.

At the close of o meeting yesterday the contractors said in a statement:

BOTH SIDES

"In making the decision to meet the wage demand, we have done so with the full realization that both sides are still firmly convinced that their position has been just through-out, and with the further realization that the continued refusal to meet the 15 cents wage demand would serve only to prolong the strike for many months with the consequent hardship which would be imposed on both sides and on the public generally.

"The public endorsement of the carpenters' wage demands by the labor relations board has completely removed any hope of settlement other than by this course.

"We assume that it is the intention of the labor relations board that a similar 15-cent increase shall be granted to all other trades—electricians, plumbers, bricklayers, painters, plasterers, lathers, etc.—most of whom now have wage demands pending.

"To do otherwise would be to break the trend of wage increases, and according to the board, efforts to hold the price line in the face of ever-increasing economic costs should not be made a local issue.

APPEAL THELEEN

"Further opposition to demands for wage increases would appear useless if such increases cannot be dealt with as a local issue. Moreover, our opposition was based on the opinion that our resistance to increased wages was justified by the already high level of wages that was in the best interest of the local construction industry and the public generally.

"In view of the announcement by the labor relations board, which is a Government body, we are no longer justified in assuming that our action is in the public interest . . .

"That will have the effect of putting much needed housing further out of the reach of veterans and other Victoria families, a fact which could hardly be altered by the labor relations board suggestion that the situation be reviewed in six months.

"The full responsibility for this result . . . must be taken by the labor relations board . . . This is a partisan stand throughout the dispute, its refusal to take steps to prevent illegal strike action, and finally by its definite pronouncement in favor of the wage demands, the board has settled the issue."

Minesweeper Brings Refugees to Canada

CP Picture

Big Town Taken By Dutch

BATAVIA, Dec. 22 (Wednesday) (AP).—The Netherlands announced today the capture of Soerakarta, the second largest city of the Indonesian Republic.

Tjepoe, oil centre in Central Java, also fell before the advancing Netherlands forces, military headquarters here said.

Informed sources said they expect the Netherlands to announce a link-up of ground forces from Semarang with the parachutists and airborne forces that captured Jogjakarta, the Indonesian capital.

A Netherlands military spokesman gave no details on the capture of Soerakarta, which lies 40 miles northeast of Jogjakarta. He indicated that resistance was not heavy.

The spokesman could give no details on the capture of Tjepoe. He would not confirm reports the Republicans left oil fires burning in the fields.

Yesterday The Netherlands announced a new landing on the northeast coast of Sumatra and capture of several more towns in Java.

ACCOUNT CENSORED

(This account was subject to Netherlands censorship. No advices were available from the side of the Indonesian Republic.)

A spokesman emphatically denied the claims of Indonesian spokesmen in Paris and elsewhere that Republican forces had recaptured Jogjakarta, the Republican capital in South Java.

The Netherlanders were apparently moving ahead methodically though with not the same spectacular success that marked the first hours of their operation.

Secrecy marked their moves, however, and correspondents were permitted to send only what was announced in communiques.

Suburbanites Sacrificed In New Berlin Setup

BERLIN, Dec. 21 (AP).—The Western Powers set up their own military government for Berlin today without Russia.

Meanwhile, the inhabitants of the suburban village of Stolpe were sacrificed in the bitter East-West political warfare for control of this blockaded city.

The village voted anti-Communist in this month's elections. But today the Russian Soviet control of Stolpe with French consent.

The French commandant of Berlin said the French feared for Stolpe's inhabitants but added:

"The choice was to help 2,000,000 in Berlin instead of 400 in Stolpe."

FINAL STEP

Setting up of a three-power military government for Western Berlin was the final official step recognizing (in) the city is definitely split between Russia and the West.

Postwar agreements provided that the four conquering Governments should control Berlin through machinery known as the Kommandatura. The Russians refused to participate in the Kommandatura after July 1. They set out to govern their section of the city by themselves.

Today the United States, Britain and France, meeting in the old Kommandatura building, announced they would carry on Kommandatura rule on a three-power basis.

This in effect meant the Western Powers would govern their three sectors as a single unit.

The way was left open for the Soviets to rejoin the Kommandatura and unified rule if they desired.

The village of Stolpe and the fate of its inhabitants attracted most of the attention in Berlin.

In 1945 the Russians turned Stolpe and its area over to the French to build an airport.

When the French built the new Tegel airport within its sector the Russians demanded Stolpe back.

Meanwhile Stolpe had participated in the regular Berlin city elections which the Russians and Communists boycotted. The tiny village voted overwhelmingly anti-Communist.

Hold Onto Airpark Site for Future Association Plea, to Inform Council

"Hold onto the Gordon Head airpark site," is the new plea of airpark supporters who do not want the city to sell the property and lose the "only suitable place" for a light-plane landing field in the Greater Victoria area.

W. A. Scott, president of the Greater Victoria Memorial Airpark Association, said yesterday the association will be officially approaching the City Council soon to present its views on the site.

"It would be nothing short of a crime to let it go," Mr. Scott said. He explained that in the future the community would become more and more conscious and opposition in an airpark would dwindle.

Referring to the results of the referendum last Saturday when Saanich voters decisively were not in favor of retoding the property for use of light planes, Mr. Scott said there were at least 1,700 persons who were air-minded and did not want the rezoning.

"There were practically none a few years ago," he said. He claimed that voters had in the past turned down by-laws, such as water by-laws, which they later approved when they realized conditions had changed.

Next official municipal move in the airpark issue appears to be up to the new Saanich Council, although the city will have to decide what to do with its $30,000 investment.

The city is looking for an official decision on the rezoning by-law from Saanich Council in view of the referendum decision of the voters.

When an official decision is made by Saanich, then the city can start out afresh.

One of the most important points is the city holding the land from the Dominion Government for airpark purposes only. If the city wants to use it for something else it now agreement will have .to be made.

There are several alternatives. The city may be able to keep the land until operation of an airpark is becomes possible. It could try to negotiate with the Government as the land could be used for another purpose, such as a fair ground site to replace the Willows. It could also sell the property back to the Government and get the $30,000 back. A far-fetched alternative is to go ahead and operate an airpark and see what happens.

Christmas Seals Started by Dane

picture a little boy in front of a Yuletide candle. Jorgensen has kept a seal from each year's issue. The idea of selling seals to get funds for fighting tuberculosis has since spread to many other countries, in-

Federal Civil Servants, All Servicemen to Get Pay Increase as Bonus

Announcement Expected Today Of "Gift" in Time for Christmas

OTTAWA, Dec. 21 (CP).—Canada's 135,000 civil servants and members of the armed forces are going to get their cost-of-living bonus just in time for Christmas—in the nature of a pay increase.

Prime Minister St. Laurent or Finance Minister Abbott likely will announce details of the long-sought bonus tomorrow, giving civil servants and members of the services an approximate $15 a month pay increase.

RETROACTIVE

It was expected the pay increase will be retroactive to October 1, 1948. Cheques are to be prepared as soon as possible.

The $15 a month bonus—to be turned a straight salary boost—will be attached to the pay cheques of approximately 77,000 civil servants in Ottawa, about 38,000 services personnel and about 72,000 other Government workers across the country.

The expected increase is greatly reduced from the original request Cherry Kearton, well-known Canadian by the civil servants for a cost-of-living bonus of $45 a month for all classes of Government workers.

But the Cabinet, it was learned, considered that to grant the original request would mean that another $70,000,000 would have to be found from Canadian taxpayers to meet the expenditure. The boost granted is expected to cost the Dominion less than $30,000,000 a year.

Four Japs Landed On Island

Believed to be the first native Japanese to set foot in British Columbia since before Pearl Harbor, a four Japanese fishermen were landed December 13 at Port Alice, on the upper reaches of Quatsino Sound, after being rescued from their drifting fishing boat 530 miles from their native shores. Word from the remote inland centre reached here last night.

They were saved by the crew of the American freighter Elko Victory.

CRAFT DISABLED

The fishermen were sighted on their disabled craft December 8 A storm-crew on a lifeboat set out over rough water to reach the drifting boat after several fruitless attempts. The lifeboat had to be abandoned after the men boarded the Elko Victory.

NO ENGLISH

The Japanese speak no English and exact details concerning them were difficult to obtain. They were Katsu Saito, 36; Teifoomasa, 30; Sanakuy Yanzanshi, 50; Rokutaio Sasabi, 21, all of the vessel Saanyo Maru, 8.

Captain F. Henderson of the Elko Victory stated the fishing craft was taking water and could not have weathered the rough sea much longer.

VIA SEATTLE

The fishermen will be returned to Japan via Seattle, it was declared.

A Federal law which bars Japanese from the Pacific coastal area will prohibit the four fishermen from roaming freely at Port Alice, immigration officials said yesterday.

They will remain aboard the Elko while she loads cargo or else be placed in immigration custody.

BULLETINS

Gives Blessing

NANKING, Dec. 22 (Wednesday) (AP).—President Chiang Kai-shek today approved the new Sun Fo Cabinet.

The action ended China's longest period without a Government. Premier Sun has been trying to put together a suitable Cabinet since November 26.

Chiang issued no statement to indicate whether the new Government will have his sanction to attempt to negotiate with the Communists.

Escape Flames

VANCOUVER, Dec. 21 (CP).—Seventy - five persons fled into snow-covered streets tonight when a three-alarm fire damaged the three-story, 32-suite Lorry Lodge in the Fairview district.

Medical Aides' Bodies Found

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Dec. 21 (AP).—The bodies of six Costa Ricans believed to be Red Cross workers killed by rebels invading the country from Nicaragua were brought to San Jose today.

Government informants said the group had gone to set up a hospital in Northern Costa Rica, and were surprised and killed. The wounds indicated they had been slain by bullets fired at close range into their heads. Their bodies were brought here by Government air transports.

Provisional president Jose Figueres and president-elect Otilio Ulate declared in a joint statement they had learned "with grief and indignation of the cowardly assassination of a selected group of Red Cross workers by invading Calderonista forces and their foreign allies."

Red Cross arm bands still were on the bodies.

Visitors Spend $40,000,000

VANCOUVER, Dec. 21 (CP) — An estimated $40,000,000 was spent by tourists in British Columbia this year, R. H. Hart, provincial publicity commissioner here, said today.

"Floods and "pinch" publicity, however, "robbed" the Province of a full $50,000,000, he said.

The gain in tourist traffic over 1947 was only 2 per cent and would have been 12 per cent except for the floods and the accident insurance law, Baker said.

Vancouver received approximately $32,000,000 of the 1948 expenditures, the commissioner said, with the city from points outside of the province—$20,000 from the United States.

Roosevelt Identified As Victim

SHANGHAI Dec 22—(Wednesday) —Chinese National Airlines said today a rescue party has identified the body of Quentin Roosevelt among those killed in a China crash near Hongkong yesterday.

CNAC headquarters also disclosed that Peng Hsueh-Pei, former minister of information, Peng Yuchang, Shanghai manager of Chinese Central News Agency, and P. L. Peng, noted Chinese movie director also were on the plane.

The airline said it still could not say positively that all aboard were killed. It had been reported that 37 persons lost their lives.

The rescue party advised from Hongkong that it also had identified the body of the pilot, Charles Sundby, a Danish national.

Roads, Power Lines Hit With Heavy Island Snow

Part of Vancouver Island was blanketed last night by heavy snow, sleet and rain causing power, telegraph and telephone breakdowns, dangerous roads, and several automobile accidents.

Worst hit of island communities according to British Columbia Police headquarters, was Duncan.

Late last night police there reported eight to ten inches of snow which hadn't stopped. Roads were hard packed and police said about 15 cars had skidded into ditches or been abandoned.

"Cars in this area must have chains or they won't be able to travel," police said.

Power was cut off. Wires broke under weight of snow causing two night black-outs of about three to four minutes each, and lights periodically dimmed.

THREE INCHES

Nanaimo, at a late hour, had a snowfall of about three inches. Residents in the city were warned to further out of town hard-packed snow conditions. Police there, however, said three or four minor collisions were reported.

Power at Nanaimo was cut off for approximately 45 minutes and lights were out from about 6 20 until 7.15 p.m.

At Nanaimo Bay, passengers were shaken up when their bus was in collision with a car. No one was injured.

At the Alberni, the snow began early in the morning and continued up until 5 p.m. Roads there too were covered, hard-packed and dangerous but police reported no accidents, and said traffic hadn't been impeded much. But there is no telling what conditions will be like tomorrow," they added.

Cowichan Village and Mesachie Lake reported more than a foot of snow fallen by 8 a.m. Telegraph lines from Duncan to both points were torn down and bus schedules were delayed.

MANY STALLED

A number of automobiles were stalled along South Shore Road to Honeymoon Bay and on Cowichan Lake Road near Duncan.

The Hillcrest Lumber Co., Ltd., was forced to halt logging in the vicinity of Mesachie Lake and work will not be resumed until January 3.

An unlicensed power line disruption in the Bridge River district left residents of Vancouver were into complete darkness for two hours.

B.C. Electric Co officials said auxiliary power from Stave Falls, Ruskin and Buntzen in the Fraser Valley would be administered until the break was found.

The Vancouver Meteorological office however predicted at least a brief let-up with "clearing during the night," but gave the "continued cold" sign to most of the Island.

Stalin, 69, Must Think Of Selecting Successor

LONDON, Dec. 21 (AP) — Prime Minister Joseph Vissarionovich Stalin of the Soviet Union, 69 today, has reached an age when he must think of passing on his mantle to a new world Communist boss.

There are some indications Stalin already has chosen Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov.

The second-in-line heir appears to be Lavrenty Pavlovich Beria, 49, head of the dreaded secret police. Like Stalin, Beria comes from Georgia. He rose to prominence during the 1930 purges, but has stopped the practice of arresting everybody he's pointed about.

Their present positions were clearly shown in the thousands of pictures of the powerful Politburo which were splashed over the Soviet Union on the opening day the celebration of the Russian Revolution. Stalin was in the center. Molotov was on his right, Beria on his left—evidence accepted by Russians as the one-two positions behind Stalin.

Up to now Stalin has shown no signs of laying aside the iron rule from which he rules the Communist world: Chairman of the Council of Ministers and Secretary-General of the Central Committee of the Communist Party.

Stories persist that he is ill. So far as can be determined, however, his health is not seriously poor. Since the war he has taken an annual Winter vacation at Sochi, on the Black Sea coast—a warm, sunny spot like Florida.

Communists varied today in their notice of Stalin's anniversary.

The London daily "Worker gave it not a line.

But Soviet - licensed German papers in Berlin hailed him as "a friend of peace-loving working people in all the world."

From Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito, whose partisans have been condemned by Moscow, sent greetings "in which you much success in your hard work."

Ottawa Wants Single Route Carson Says

The Dominion Government has indicated it is only interested in developing one route for the Trans-Canada Highway," Works Minister F. C. Carson said yesterday on his return from the highway conference in Ottawa.

He reported estimates put forward at the conference indicated it would cost $260,000,000 to complete a first-class highway across Canada.

Major Cities in North "Written Off" for China

NANKING, Dec. 21 (AP).—Besieged Peiping and Tientsin were written off militarily today by observers who believe "the shooting war" in the whole vast region north of the Yangtze is all but over.

Qualified military observers declared the Government now lacks the forces to mount an offensive anywhere from Nanking to the Peiping-Tientsin area 500 miles to the north.

Nor do they believe the Government can check any big Communist push to the north bank of the Yangtze, a formidable barrier and the last before this capital. Nanking lies on the south bank.

(The Communist radio hinted that it won't be long before strong Communist forces reach the Yangtze about 30 miles east of Nanking where the Grand Canal flows into the river.)

Tientsin appeared to be as tightly encircled as the other big North China city, Peiping.

All communication to the sea was cut when the Communists seized portions of the railway, including the town of Chunliangcheng, 13 miles east of Tientsin.

The Government reported "fierce" fighting overnight around the southwest gate at Peiping. The fighting, however, seems to have slackened.

(The Communist radio said the 35th Army, one of the main forces of Gen. Fu Tso-Yi, commander in North China, was encircled in the mountains about 60 miles northwest of Peiping.)

Associated Press correspondent Seymour Topping reported from the East China front that the Government was completing the abandonment of the Hwai River line 100 miles northwest of the capital.

He said the move was accepted as a plain indication that all hope was abandoned for the escape of the former Suchow garrison trapped north of the Hwai.

U.S. Cuts Aid Given To China

WASHINGTON, Dec 21 (AP).—The United States Government today "froze" about $70,000,000 in economic aid to China until the situation clears in that Communist-threatened country.

Paul G. Hoffman, chief of the Economic Co-operation Administration, announced the action after conferring with President Truman at the White House.

The announcement, made as Nationalist China moved closer to collapse, said E.C.A. has suspended almost all reconstruction projects in China, including the rebuilding of war-shattered transportation systems and docks.

He indicated, however, that E.C.A will go ahead with other phases of its $400,000,000 program to help China—notably food.

Death of Bookkeeper Described as Accident

CRESTON, B.C., Dec. 21 (CP).—An officer of the British Columbia Provincial Police detachment here tonight said the death of a bookkeeper in a butcher shop knifing today apparently was accidental.

The officer said statements of a witness indicated that Harold McKinnon was killed when he collided with a butcher while running downstairs to investigate an altercation between two men.

McKinnon was called from his office by Mrs. Gerry McNanney who told him her husband and another butcher, H Tormander, were arguing downstairs. McNanney and Tormander both were cut during the argument.

As McKinnon ran down the stairs, the officer said, McNanney was mounting them carrying a butcher knife in his hand. The knife entered McKinnon's stomach and he died soon after from loss of blood.

The officer said it appeared that McNanney and Tormander had had an argument which alarmed Mrs. McNanney. Tormander was "scratched" and McNanney suffered a leg gash, the officer said.

McNanney apparently continued running from the butcher shop where he and Tormander had been cleaning turkeys and crossed the street to an hotel to summon medical aid.

Police also were called to the scene but neither Tormander nor McNanney was charged as a result of the fracas.

An inquest will be held.

...Oddities...

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 21 (AP).—Westinghouse scientists today rested a feather against a steel bar—and then measured how much the bar was twisted.

The occasion was a demonstration of their newly-developed device to make better torque meters—gadgets that measure power delivered by airplane propellers, jet engines and other rotating machinery.

The incredibly sensitive device, known as a "twist detector" by its designers, William P. Welch and Benjamin J. Cametti at the Westinghouse Research Labs here, will measure a twist of less than one-millionth of an inch.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 21 (CP).—Parking meters don't become legal here until Thursday—but last week they collected $18.72. Despite reams of press publicity about the installation, motorists began dropping in coins as soon as the boxes were installed.

SHERBROOKE, Que., Dec. 21 (CP).—Weather note:

Sherbrooke firemen today fought a small grass blaze on the outskirts of the city.

BRANTFORD, Dec. 21 (CP).—Fifteen children from the Ontario School for the Blind here brightened Christmas yesterday for women of the Widows' Home. The blind children, who call themselves "The Gloomchasers' Club," entertained the elderly women with songs and recitations. They brought gifts of candy bought with their savings.

Long Struggle Ends—Eire Wins Freedom

DUBLIN, Dec. 21 (AP).—Eire officially became an independent republic today.

Southern Ireland's centuries-old and often bloody struggle for independence came to a peaceful end as President Sean T. O'Kelly signed Eire out of the British Government.

O'Kelly approved the bill of the Dail repealing the External Relations Act which had empowered the Crown to accredit Irish diplomats.

The act was the last slender constitutional tie between Eire and the Crown and Commonwealth.

The repeal actually becomes effective on an "Independence Day" which Prime Minister John A. Costello's Government is expected to proclaim early in the Spring.

But both British and Irish leaders have forecast continued close co-operation.

Prime Minister Attlee, in the British House of Commons, said any Eire citizen will be registered as a British citizen upon application to the Home Secretary, provided he or she knows English and is of good character.

Fuel Ready, Awaiting Ship For First Flight to Moon

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 21 (AP).—Liquid hydrogen now could send a rocket to the moon at a speed of 30,000 miles an hour.

Ohio State University today took the top off its rocket fuel research for the first time to announce that all that stands between inter-planetary travel is lack of a ship strong enough to make the trip.

Professor H. L. Johnston of the O.S.U. chemistry department said laboratory experiments with liquid hydrogen rocket motors have produced enough energy to send an object beyond the earth's gravitational pull.

"All we need is a ship to put the liquid hydrogen in," Johnston remarked, "and that's coming."

The O.S.U. work is supported by the United States Air Force, and is on the secret list. Johnston refused to comment on the possibility of using the fuel during a war.

Johnston is the first scientist to work with liquid hydrogen in rockets. Liquid hydrogen has been known, however, since 1898.

Vancouver's Shipyard Workers Urge Modern Merchant Fleet

VANCOUVER, Dec 21 (CP).—Five hundred shipyard workers here have demanded the immediate development of a modern Canadian merchant marine, fair treatment for its seamen, and an up-to-date shipbuilding industry.

Meeting here with three Federal members of Parliament for Vancouver ridings the men said they were taking steps to bolster shipyard employment and aid the hundreds of their members who have been "let out" of yards where there is no work.

Howard Green (P.C., Vancouver South); Angus MacInnis (C.C.F., Vancouver East), and James Sinclair (L., Vancouver North) supported a resolution instructing the Maritime Commission to proceed immediately with construction of a new merchant marine, "with or without the support of shipowners."

Mr. MacInnis told the workers he was not in favor of having the Government build ships for private operation. Mr. Green suggested six proposals in aid of the industry.

Build fast merchant ships; build fast naval vessels, with higher speeds as escort craft than the corvette or frigate; Government subsidies to maintain industry; require half the goods shipped from Canada to be carried by Canadian vessels; carry on coastal trade in Canadian vessels, and raise the standards and training of seamen in Canada's merchant marine.

Mr. Sinclair told the men they should exert pressure in Ottawa, to ensure the shipsales money in escrow shall not be spent outside Canada.

Another resolution passed called for an increase and extension of unemployment insurance benefits, to give unemployed workers a better living and guarantee them an income until they become employed again.

William L. White, president of Local 1 of the Marine Workers and Boilermakers' Industrial Union (C.C.L.-C.I.O.), who presided, pointed out that less than 1,000 shipyard workers were now employed here compared to 25,000 during the war.

Marshall Plan May Be Wedge To Settle War

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (AP).—United States Government officials are studying the idea of using Marshall Plan millions as a wedge to settle the shooting war in Indonesia.

These officials indicated that if The Netherlands should defy a cease-fire order, which may be forthcoming from the United Nations, then the United States might pigeon-hole Dutch requests for further credits.

So far this year, a total of $292,564,675 in Marshall Plan funds has been allocated to The Netherlands, plus $61,790,958 to The Netherlands Indies.

The Netherlands ambassador Eelco Van Kleffens, denied to reporters today that any E.C.A. funds have been used to arm Dutch troops. The Indonesian envoy, Dr. D. Soemitro, told reporters yesterday that The Netherlands is diverting E.C.A. dollars in Indonesia "for the purpose of waging a colonial war against freedom-loving people."

Consumer Goods, Personal Services Top Business Revenue Source in '47

OTTAWA, Dec. 21 (CP).—Approximately 84 per cent of business revenue in 1947 came from sales of $8,516,000,000 of consumer goods and services for personal use, the Bureau of Statistics reported today.

The remainder consisted of 4 per cent from sales of $585,000,000 to Government, 18 per cent from sales of $2,884,000,000 of capital goods such as plant, equipment, inventories and housing and 23 per cent from sales of $3,354,000,000 to non-residents.

Salaries and wages of $5,362,000,000 paid by business made up 54 per cent of total business-expenditure, which also included $2,354,000,000 or 13 per cent, going out as net income of agriculture and other unincorporated business. Investment income, depreciation and other costs and imports took up the remainder.

NEW SYSTEM

The bureau reported these figures on the basis of a new system of balancing national income and expenditure accounts. The system divides the economy into four separate sectors—business, personal, Government and non-residents—and matches each item of revenue against each item of expenditure.

The new method shows that 83 per cent of personal income—$8,218,000,000—was spent in 1947 on purchases of goods and services from Canadian business. About 2 per cent was spent abroad directly by individuals, 8 per cent was absorbed by personal direct taxes and six per cent was saved.

CHANGING PATTERN

The system shows the changing pattern of saving and investment from 1938 to 1947.

In 1932 personal saving amounted to $172,000,000, undistributed profits to 2130,000,000 and depreciation allowances to $660,000,000. This saving was absorbed for the most part by investment in plant, equipment, inventories and housing. The balance was taken up by investment abroad and the Government deficit of $166,000,000.

In 1944, personal saving reached $1,738,000,000 while business saving stood at $312,000,000 and depreciation allowances were $863,000,000. The huge Government deficit of $2,581,000,000, resulting from the war, absorbed most of the saving. Most of the balance was taken up by the relatively small amount of investment in plant, equipment, inventories and housing.

In 1947 the situation was vastly different. Personal saving dropped to $606,000,000 while business saving rose to $668,000,000 and depreciation allowances to $928,000,000. In the same year gross home investment reached a record high of $2,884,000,000, greatly in excess of total private saving. However, large saving also took place in the Government sector as indicated by the record Government surplus of the year 1947.

Mail Destroyed In Nova Scotia

HALIFAX, Dec. 21 (CP).—An undetermined number of bags of Christmas mail burned today when fire broke out in a Canadian National Railway baggage car at Elmsdale, about 33 miles from here.

The train was en route from Moncton, N.B., to Halifax and many of the bags contained Christmas mail from a large mail-order store in Moncton.

2,000,000TH

MONTREAL, Dec. 21 (CP). — The distinction of being the 2,000,000th passenger carried by Trans-Canada Air Lines fell to W. W. Taylor, a West Vancouver hardware merchant. Mr. Taylor left for the West Coast today after a business trip to Eastern Canada centres.

Says SUCCESSFUL HOMEMAKER
MRS. DALLAS BLANKENSHIP

I've collected baking recipes galore! KITCHEN CRAFT FLOUR works wonders with any recipe!

More than 20 times sifted through silk!
That's why Kitchen Craft Flour is extra fine, extra soft. It's milled exclusively for home baking. Mixes quickly, easily with other ingredients . . . assures the thorough blending so necessary for success with any recipe.

• Yes, here is the flour that promises you baking success not just with special recipes, but with any recipe you have—or will have. Kitchen Craft Flour is milled exclusively for home baking. It's silk sifted more than 20 times. Blends quickly and easily with other ingredients to give tender, fresh-keeping baked things that look good, taste good and keep well.

Treat your family to the extra goodness of home-baked things more often. And remember . . . whenever and whatever you bake, Kitchen Craft Flour works wonders with any recipe.

•GUARANTEED—better baking results with any recipe. If you don't find that Kitchen Craft Flour is the finest flour you ever used, please return it to your grocer. He will gladly refund the full price that you paid for it.

Recipe for OLD-TIME BREAKFAST ROLLS

Soften 2 cakes (¾ oz. each) yeast in ¼ cup lukewarm water. Scald 1 cup milk; add ¼ cup butter or margarine, ¼ cup sugar and 1 tsp. salt. Cool to lukewarm. Add about 2 cups sifted Kitchen Craft Flour and mix well. Add 2 beaten eggs and softened yeast. Beat well. Add about 3 more cups Kitchen Craft Flour, enough to make a soft dough. Knead on a lightly floured surface until satiny. Cover in a greased bowl and allow to rise in warm place (80° to 85°F.) until double in bulk. Divide dough in thirds; turn one part on to a floured surface and roll into a 7" x 12" rectangle. Brush with melted butter, sprinkle with ¼ cup brown sugar, ½ tsp. cinnamon, and ¼ cup coarsely cut pecans. Roll as for jelly roll, starting with long side. Cut into 12 slices and place, cut side down, in greased medium-sized muffin cups that have ½ tsp. melted butter, 1 tsp. brown sugar and a few broken pecans in the bottom of each. Allow to rise in a warm place until double in bulk. Bake in moderate (375°F.) oven for about 25 minutes. Remaining dough may be used for additional rolls or a coffee cake.

Victoria Egg Prices Steady — But Not Likely to Get Cheaper

Price of eggs has remained steady around 57 cents a dozen for Grade A large throughout the past three weeks, city grocers said yesterday.

Drop from a price at times greater than 70 cents a dozen was said to be the result of the recently-announced cut in egg exports to the United Kingdom.

"Domestic prices are now on a level with export prices and are not likely to go any lower," said one dealer. Some retailers said they had experienced less difficulty in getting supplies of eggs since exports were reducd.

Under the 1949 contract, Britain has cut her import of Canadian eggs from 74,000,000 to 46,000,000 dozens.

Prevailing wholesale price of eggs in Victoria yesterday was 51 cents a dozen for Grade A large, 49 cents for mediums, 45 cents for pullets and 45 cents for Grade B. Retail prices for all grades were said to be some six or seven cents above the wholesale level.

MORE RESIDENTS

Population of Victoria increased 6,400 since 1947 according to estimates published by the new British Columbia and Yukon Directory for 1948.

Residential population of Greater Victoria increased from 96,500 to 103,900, a gain of 7,400. Oak Bay municipality estimates showed an increase of 1,000.

Individual 1948 estimates for the four respective municipalities are as follows: Victoria, 61,400; Oak Bay, 12,000; Esquimalt, 4,500; and Saanich, 26,000.

Both Esquimalt and Saanich failed to show an increase over 1947 estimates

Victoria Post Office Flooded With Mail

—Colonist Photo

SHOWN above, Walter R. Harris, left, and Albert Chalmers empty one of many packed mail bags which have come into Victoria post office in past ten days. Postal officials and others in building were breathing sighs of relief yesterday as the Christmas rush began to "peter out." Monday was season's peak day, when more than 346,140 letters were handled, despite fact that Saturday was deadline for local Christmas mail. During past week, post office has received and distributed some 16,000 bags of parcels. Number of letters handled Monday was 50,000 greater than the previous record. Staff at post office was trebled to handle Yuletide mail.

Christmas Cheer Show Proves Hit

City Problems Cause Langley To Drop Action

Harry Langley, 1010 Foul Bay Road, said yesterday he had decided not to take the city to court over the handling of the arena project "owing to the many difficult problems which must be faced by the city in the coming year."

Mr. Langley, who last week submitted a five-page brief to council criticizing its actions, previously said he was considering legal action against the city. His point was that the city paid for advertisements urging ratepayers to vote for the $265,000 arena by-law.

"It is not legal for the city to vote the people's money for propaganda purposes," he said yesterday. "The city, of course, must advertise a money by-law which is to be submitted to the vote of the property owners for approval or disapproval, but the council is not entitled to misrepresent the facts and certainly is not entitled to advertise, to vote 'yes!'"

Mr. Langley said that citizens can take warning that the city's financial position is serious and that council is faced with serious problems to overcome.

Records Carry Mayor's Message

MAYOR Percy George again sent good-will Christmas messages by transcribed phonograph records to cities across Canada.

The records, sent through the mail, carried transcribed good wishes from the people of Victoria.

Mayor George also read out the names of Victoria's ten aldermen who joined in sending the season's greetings.

Stay in Line Police Order To Motorists

"Stay in line and don't crowd" was the advice given yesterday by Inspector John Blackstock to motorists planning to participate in Thursday night's caravan of cars viewing decorated homes.

Inspector Blackstock said the caravan will be led by a city police motorcycle escort and will leave Dallas Road, between Cook and Douglas Streets, at 7:30 p.m. He said the parade will line up facing west.

The inspector appealed to all motorists to obey instructions given by Victoria Motorcycle Club members, main escorts, who will wear white arm bands, he said.

About 50 home owners have entered this year's Junior Chamber of Commerce Christmas lighting contest. The contest, the first since the war, is to stimulate interest in home decorations during the festive season.

The caravan will be led by a pilot car followed by civic and municipal officials who will judge the contest.

Word Causes New Debate Over Airpark

Saanich Council took a final fling at the Gordon Head airpark issue last night—and not without the inevitable disagreement

This time, however, it was a good deal simpler than most of the complicated debates which have plagued the airpark question in the past.

The disagreement was over one word in a resolution.

Councillor Leslie H. Passmore, strong airpark supporter, made a motion that the City of Victoria be notified that "because" of the airpark referendum results Saanich Council will not rezone the Gordon Head site.

"The people objected to the airpark. That settles the question," stated Councillor Passmore

Councillor K. R. Genn also agreed, but only in part.

"Change one word and I'll vote for your motion. Change the word 'because' to whereas," he declared.

An argument followed, but Councillor Passmore gave in. Reeve E. C. Warren suggested that the Department of Transport also be notified.

Struck by Car Hydrant Snaps

A fire hydrant was snapped of at its base and damage caused to a lamp standard at 12:25 a.m. yesterday when a car driven by William Chaster, 1979 Watson Street, left the road at the intersection of Government and Michigan Streets, according to a city police report.

Police said Chaster was driving south on Government Street when the collision occurred. Damage was caused to the cement sidewalk and three cluster lights were broken, police reported.

Seven Chinese Due in Victoria After Air Trip From Shanghai

Names of seven persons expected to arrive in Victoria shortly from Shanghai were released yesterday by the External Affairs Department.

The seven, part of a group of 50 Canadians, 24 of Chinese origin, were scheduled to leave Shanghai, Monday, aboard a Trans-Ocean aircraft. A second plane is due to leave with another group of Canadians, December 28.

Meantime weather conditions in Shanghai have delayed the take-off

Scheduled to leave Shanghai Monday, the plane now is not expected to leave until today, the External Affairs Department said last night.

The group is expected to arrive in Vancouver Thursday night.

Most of those in the first group will be missionaries and businessmen and their dependents. They are leaving China because of the situation created by the civil war.

Following is the list of persons bound for Victoria aboard the first plane. The department warned there may be some last-minute changes.

James Wing Pat Chin and Mrs. Josephine P. Chin, coming to Victoria to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wong, 2634 Fifth Street.

Bak Him Lang, Mrs. Nee Shee Lang, Won Lang, seven, Miss Hung Lang, five; to Mrs. A. Yee, 737 View Street.

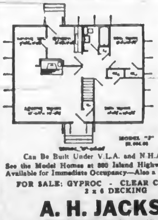

Miss Hon May Lee, to Eve Lee, 826 Caledonia Avenue.

Sales Tax Surplus for Road Work Recommendation of Saanich Council

Expenditure of surplus general revenue funds on roads was recommended to the 1949 Saanich Council at the last meeting of the present council last night.

Councillor George Rudd made the motion after council was informed by Municipal Clerk John B. Tribe that the municipality's share of the sales tax revenue has been received. He said the cheque was for $59,754.60.

Reeve E. C. Warren said the council had budgeted this year for $45,000 from this source, leaving a surplus of about $14,000. He warned, however, that the surplus picture may change considerably before the end of the year.

Councillor Rudd suggested that in view of the fact that the ratepayers have defeated road by-laws an increase of four mills should be placed on the tax rate in order to raise funds for road construction. It was Councillor Rudd's last meeting, having been defeated at the polls on Saturday.

NO LOAD

In this way, he added, about $50,000 could be raised, and the municipality wouldn't be loaded down with interest charges as is the case with money by-laws.

Reeve Warren again warned that the financial picture may be "gloomier" next year

"There undoubtedly will be increases in all departments," he said. "We can't tax a man out of his home."

Councillor Rudd added that he didn't think the people are getting very much out of the sales tax revenue

Judgment Set Thursday For City Union

Magistrate H. C. Hall will give judgment Thursday on the trial of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 230, charged with calling a strike contrary to the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act.

After asking certain questions of J. Howard Herman, counsel for Mawson & Gage, electrical firm, yesterday, Magistrate Hall said he wished to give the matter further consideration.

He also remanded the case of F. J. Bevis, union business agent, who is charged with assenting to calling the strike, alleged to have occurred from October 25-27 inclusive.

Mr. Harman told the court that under Section 30 of the I.C.A. Act which provided that no strike be called until after a strike vote has been taken made the walkout illegal.

When Mr. Bevis asked the magistrate about the charge against himself, Magistrate Hall replied that it is customary in cases of this nature to apply the evidence of one charge to the other with the consent of the parties concerned. Additions to the evidence may be made, he explained, and the same evidence does not have to be gone over twice.

Laurier Club Tested On Qualities

Members of the Laurier Club were given a ten-point test last night on qualities necessary to potential civic candidates.

The man who arranged the test is well qualified. He is Dr. J. M. Ewing, principal of Victoria College, well-known psychologist.

Here are the qualities necessary: intelligence, vitality and magnetism, experience in leadership, reputation for integrity, success in profession, humor, neighborliness, speech, plainliness, and party loyalty

Emergency "Controls" Have Curious Ring in 1948

EVERY time Democracy accepts a totalitarian solution even extemporaneously it weakens a substantial part of its own case. That process has spread far in the world, as anyone watching events in Europe, the United Kingdom and now on this continent can discern. Basically, there can be no compromise between individual freedom and a form of state control ranging from the limited to at times the absolute. The new "four-year-plan" for economic recovery in Great Britain, and the concurrent draft of measures to be laid before the United States Congress for emergency controls in the event of war, may have wholly valid purposes, but they will be cheered for behind the Iron Curtain nonetheless. Indeed, both will be propagandized by the Kremlin internally in Russia as evidence against Democracy itself.

Anyone who has lived at first hand under Nazi, Fascist or Soviet domination, and lost there the possessed freedoms of individual rights and liberties, does not need to be told what can be done under the mantle of state "control." Through it in Russia most human rights have been forfeited today. In Western Europe, where nations through necessity or otherwise are still following totalitarian methods in some part, there has been small return yet of the inherent free will rights of the individual. The test of what has happened in Great Britain under a Socialist regime is the use that Communists would make of the same machinery if they were in power; and sometimes they seem to have been the "advisers" and "planners" as well.

Rigid controls over manpower, property, industry, finance and food are the means by which totalitarianism has seized and held power. That Democracy should have to resort to such methods, even momentarily, is neither a little not a quietening thing. It is part of a trend which the world must reverse, or go under.

Community Chest Problem Not Peculiar

SYMPATHETIC interest will be shown in the problem of spreading Community Chest funds over a longer period than that for which the directors may feel they have adequate funds. The difficulty is not peculiar to this city; it is one that affects the raising and spending of charity monies elsewhere as well. Disappointing results from campaigns such as were experienced here this year add to the problem. That much will be conceded.

It may be, however, that the Community Chest will have to cut its collective coat according to the cloth available. It could be argued that the amount subscribed by the public recently was the total sum the community desired to spend on welfare work of the nature carried on. People were appealed to for a budget to cover operations for the next 12 months. The amount raised might not have come up to expectations, but nevertheless it was given with that understanding. It would not be a wise policy to carry forward a deficit to next year's campaign.

Nor would it benefit matters much for some agencies to withdraw and initiate separate appeals for funds. The saturation point of the public purse has been about reached, and additional campaigns might react unfavorably to all charitable appeals. Even welfare work, essential though it is, cannot be expanded indefinitely while inflation causes personal incomes to shrink substantially. Like many individuals, the Community Chest may be forced to limit its activities to the practicalities of the situation.

B.C. Increases Manufacturing Output

THE statistics used by Trade and Industry Minister Eyres as evidence of British Columbia's industrial development should afford encouragement to everyone who realizes the need to make this a manufacturing province, rather than a mine of natural resources to feed factories elsewhere. While allowance should be made for depressed values before the war and inflationary trends since, Mr. Eyres' estimate of $832,000,000 as the value of manufacturing production this year is impressive in comparison with the 1939 total of $248,000,000.

To judge from the minister's statements, the Government has made progress in its policy of industrial decentralization and encouragement of manufacturing development in the areas from which factories draw their raw materials. Not until there is appreciable movement towards similar decentralization across the Dominion, however, will British Columbia approach her rightful place in the Canadian manufacturing field. It sounds well to say that this has become the third largest manufacturing province, but the total output of factories remains small in relation to that of the provinces now leading.

As Mr. Eyres has pointed out, an abundance of hydro-electric power, developed and potential, is one of this province's greatest assets. At a time when shortage of electrical energy is seriously curtailing expansion in other parts of Canada, British Columbia is able to show virtually unlimited waterpower resources. This is one of the strongest inducements she can offer to the establishment of much-needed secondary industries here.

OPPORTUNITY IN CANADA

Sir,—I am enraged at the frequent publicity given recently in the daily press to so many discontented and obscure English immigrants — as I feel the type of person quoted and reported on would never prove a worthwhile citizen in any country and I suggest Canada is well rid of them and England the poorer for their return.

After encountering inevitable difficulties which are negligible compared to the many advantages offered here, many of us have made happy and successful beginnings and it is high time that we (and there are thousands of us) thanked the country of our adoption for their open-handed, unselfish kindliness and apologised for the bad manners and downright ingratitude of these searchers after "something for nothing."

Could they be told "a boat leaves every day."

J. H. C. OURR.

Olen Lake Road, Langford P.O., Victoria, B.C.

BRITISH COLUMBIA SALES TAX

Sir,—It makes a charming picture. The Finance Minister in the role of Santa Claus to the municipalities, even though minus the red robe.

Perhaps the people will be forgiven for being slightly fuddled as to his brand of "nuisance tax" in the cause of social security.

Innocent people will be wide-eyed with wonder at the millions of dollars an imposition can produce, both the known sum and the unknown quantity the Minister is so strangely coy about disclosing.

The revolt of the Young Liberals was quite understandable. Like many more they have a clear definition of Principle versus Expediency; they, too, like us, do not like being exploited in prosperous times by the Government while the latter have a comfortable surplus in the Treasury.

The Finance Minister, no doubt, has not had the time or opportunity to witness our "little people" counting over their income, and valuing goods, in order, if possible, not to forfeit six to seven per cent to the cause of usury, because of their lack of purchasing power.

The new bureau that operates in the cause of the imposition has such a nice brand new comfortable building that one feels sure the occupants must look upon the Finance Minister as a real fairy godfather.

If the idea behind the tax had been to build groups of cottages, in nice surroundings, for our elder citizens, in which they could dwell comfortably, free from care, the effect would have proved worthy of the cause.

Far too much is being expended on youth, who have a long life before them, and all the world their oyster. If they were consulted, one knows full well how generously their hearts would respond, and agree, to such a humane cause . . .

There are so many now sitting in the seats of "custom." There is the gasoline tax, amusement tax, liquor tax and surtax, sales tax and now the new poultry grading tax.

It all reads like a list of government-indentured labor and looks like a growth of barnacles on our legitimate civil service . . .

ELLEN HART.

Chipperfield Farm, East Sooke, R.R. 1, Victoria, B.C.

House of Christmas

There fared a mother driven forth
Out of an inn to roam:
In the place where she was homeless
All men are at home.
The crazy stable close at hand,
With shaking timber and shifting sand,
Grew a stronger thing to abide and stand
Than the square stones of Rome.

For men are homesick in their homes,
And strangers under the sun,
And they lay their heads in a foreign land
Whenever their day is done.
Here we have battle and blazing eyes,
And chance and honor and high surprise,
But our homes are under miraculous skies,
Where the Yule tale was begun.

A child in a foul stable,
Where the beasts feed and foam;
Only where He was homeless
And you and I at home:
We have hands that fashion and heads that know,
But our hearts are lost—how long ago!
In a place no chart nor ship can show
Under the sky's dome . . .

—G. K. CHESTERTON.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

LONG divorced from a former activity though they are, I felt my feet itch in sympathy with local soccer referees when I read they were going on strike. About the merits of their case I am in no position to comment, other than to wonder if referees could be paid too much.

That thought occurs because of a former long acquaintanceship with referees and the vicissitudes that afflict them. They are a hardy breed and I doubt if their fortitude is truly appreciated by spectators prone to heave bottles at them because of alleged misdemeanours. Cricket umpires, it would seem, are almost the only sports arbiters not liable to be suddenly punched on the nose, an experience none too pleasant as all who ever met up thusly with a closed fist will attest.

Immediately there flashes to my mental "video" a scene wherein an episode of this nature fascinated my youthful gaze. The game was of the variety known in my home town as a "juvenile" cup-tie. The word "juvenile," I should explain, had no connection with minors—if you were sprightly enough at forty you could still play in any of the juvenile leagues, and there were many, that flourished every Saturday afternoon.

To get to the point, the opposing centreforward suddenly broke through and tore across the penalty line towards the goal. He made the grevious mistake of going in too close, whereupon the home goalkeeper, with superb sangfroid and complete indifference to the whereabouts of the ball, hauled off and smacked him right on the proboscis. I regret to say it, but I chuckled with glee.

LOVELY MELEE

I learned to appreciate a different point of view when I grew up and participated in a somewhat similar situation. This was in what was called a "junior" league game, again having nothing to do with age. We—my team, if I may use the possessive term for convenience — were leading one to nothing with about twenty minutes to go when a decision of the referee displeased my particular opponent, the visiting outside right. He foolishly threw a nasty word at the referee and was immediately ordered off.

Whereupon there strode implacably to the centre of the field a spectator—a tall, taciturn miner from a place called Bellshill, as it happens. He spoke not a word; simply lifted a hefty right arm and laid the referee cold. There occurred, then, what was colloquially known as a "break-in." It was a lovely melee—lovely, that is, from the shelter of the clubhouse, to which all 22 of the players, including yours truly, hastened forthwith. This time I didn't chortle when the poor referee was carried hors de combat on a stretcher.

By then I had come to realize that in my home town a soccer referee carried his life in his hands when he ventured to blow his whistle at the wrong moment, or for what over-zealous supporters seemed only too ready to stigmatize as a heinous offence. It was bad enough to be a player and merely be stoned as you left in a brake after the game simply because your team had won, but to be a referee! In my nostalgic retirement my heart has gone out to these brave chaps with an understanding I fear I neglected to show at the time.

SAFETY FIRST

It's true that at junior league games there were bobbies, dutifully helmeted in the one-time fashion of Victoria policemen, but usually only three or four of them; and, with the strange persistence of their race, they were frequently noticed admiring some adjacent smokestack when a fracas was under way. Undeniably they were gifted with the Nelson touch. Only in the parks of the next league up, the professionals, could a referee step onto the field with any degree of equanimity.

Many a time and oft have I seen a referee edge his way towards the touchline nearest the pavilion, even let the game go over its allotted time slightly so he could put himself close to safety for the blowing of the final whistle. Running the gauntlet from the far corner of the field was indeed a foolhardy proceeding.

Another red entry on my mental calendar recalls an army cup-tie, the sort of fixture you might think could scarcely be upset by an attack on the referee, considering that he too wore a uniform and there were enough top brass, as they say nowadays, standing on the sidelines as to staff a foundry. Regimental rivalry, however, can generate quite a heat, as my shins to this day bear evidence.

It was really not surprising therefore I suppose, that the poor referee, being a stranger from another and alien brigade, should suddenly decide he had had enough. The mutterings in his ears apparently foretold what would happen to him when the game was over. Anyway, with a good ten minutes yet to play, he sneaked next to an opening in the crowd of spectators, blew a long final blast on his whistle and ran like mad out of sight, leaving a tumultuous scene scene behind. It took the Brigadier, if I remember rightly, to restore order.

Ah me, what days!

You see how it comes about, though, that I've developed a soft spot in my heart for soccer referees.

By TOM GREEN
(Colonist Ottawa Correspondent)

PRIME Minister St. Laurent is beginning to show improvement in his performance in radio broadcasting.

The reason is that he's taking lessons. As in his student days when he was plugging to get through his law examination, Mr. St. Laurent has a teacher—Rene Beaudoin, 36-year-old Liberal member in the House of Commons for Vaudreuil-Soulanges, a constituency adjacent to Montreal.

Teacher Beaudoin besides being a M.P. practices law in Montreal. And before he became an M.P. was a radio news broadcaster. As a result he soon saw that the new Liberal chieftain wasn't so hot in his radio broadcasts. When he faced the microphone with his manuscript in hand, Mr. St. Laurent's voice was too mechanical. Few of the listening public could help but detect that the Prime Minister was reading. There wasn't that change of pace and expression, techniques that help to hold a radio-listening audience. Sounding too mechanical, the "human touch" conducive toward making a master of the microphone was lacking.

So now whenever the Prime Minister has a broadcast scheduled, student and teacher have been going to CBO, the Ottawa outlet of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's trans-Canada network. Mr. Beaodoin listens to Mr. St. Laurent rehearse delivery of his speech before a "dead" microphone, then gives him pointers on emphasis and timing.

As a result of the tuition, Mr. St. Laurent is starting to pick up. This was noticeable in the speech he made on the signing up of the Canada-Newfoundland terms of union from a written manuscript, and which was broadcast. The Prime Minister's English is as near perfect as his French.

* * * * *

Despite the fact that Federal Progressive Conservative Leader George A. Drew and the C.B.C. do not get along any too well together, their experts concede that Colonel Drew is "tops" among those in public life when it comes to broadcasting. They rate Major-General George R. Pearkes, V.C., Federal Member for Nanaimo, as head and shoulders over any other public man in British Columbia. In the 1945 Federal general election campaign when he was heard over the national hook-up, the experts promptly listed the general as a "natural."

Among some of the others in the Dominion Parliament, C.B.C.'s listening experts in Ottawa say that National Health and Welfare Minister Paul Martin is an "easy" man at the "mike" and that M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, has a "natural" microphone manner. Frequently, Mr. Martin has arrived at the studios here with no script, only a handful of fragmentary notes.

The villain in the piece in the addresses which J. Nelson McCracken, Social Credit candidate in the Carleton County by-election, has been making is H. A. "Sandy" Dyde, of Edmonton, special counsel for the Government's Royal Commission on Prices.

Mr. McCracken has been attacking neither Progressive Conservative candidate George Drew, nor C.C.F. candidate Eugene Forsey, with half the fire he has been directing at the Liberal Government. He has publicly named Colonel Dyde as the man who is to be nominated by the Government for Cabinet representation for Alberta when Mines and Resources Minister James A. MacKinnon is named to the Senate shortly before the next general election. Mr. McCracken declares that while Mr. Dyde has been drawing a salary of $125 per diem, plus $25 in expenses, over a long period to prosecute profiteers, none so far have been brought before the courts. That's not correct, as several individuals have been prosecuted for profiteering and have been penalized as a result of the enquiries made first by the House of Commons committee on prices and then by the Royal Commission.

Wasting Human Resources

(From The Toronto Daily Star)

THE Canadian Welfare Council in its December publication urges the Federal Government to call a conference to discuss the rehabilitation of handicapped persons. Six months ago the Dominion Labor Department indicated it would shortly convene such a meeting, but nothing has yet been done. The welfare council, speaking for many social agencies in the country, has suggested the proposed conference be held now, "when employment is high and there is need for additional thousands of workers who could be put on the labor market by rehabilitation."

The council believes that a broad discussion of the problem should lead to the establishment of a national rehabilitation program for handicapped people. There are estimated to be about 150,000 persons of working age who are unable to obtain or hold employment owing to their disabilities. But thousands might become capable of getting and holding jobs even in a competitive labor market if they received proper medical and other services. The welfare council states: "Under modern rehabilitation treatment, about 80 per cent of these 150,000 could become productive, useful, happy members of society."

A national rehabilitation program would prevent much of the present waste of human lives. Only a fifth of the handicapped population in Canada are now receiving treatment and training to fit them for useful work. Such services are provided by the Workmen's Compensation Boards of Ontario and British Columbia, the Department of Veterans' Affairs, the Canadian National Institute for the Blind and a few other public and private agencies. But they reach a limited number of people. The National Employment Service operates a special placement bureau for handicapped persons, but this, too, is at present not reaching all who might benefit by it.

The fine rehabilitation services that have been developed in various parts of Canada require to be unified in a national system and expanded, so as to benefit all who need them. This has been done in England and in the United States. In the United States the Federal Government provides leadership and financial grants to the states; it sets standards, promotes research and pays 50 per cent of the cost of a complete rehabilitation service for handicapped. In Britain, the Disabled Persons' Act covers everyone in the country who is disabled by war service, industrial employment or congenital deformity. Under the act, every disabled person is entitled to medical treatment, hospitalization, vocational training and living allowances during the treatment and training periods.

It should not take too long or be too difficult in Canada to put into operation a national rehabilitation program, for, as the welfare council has pointed out, "most of the elements of a national service are available, either in public departments or in other agencies." The chief requirement at the moment is Federal leadership.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

There's little future in politics for the Ontario candidate who said it "isn't possible to reduce taxes and increase public benefits at the same time." He knows too much about arithmetic.

A frog was caught in a deep rut in a road and in spite of the help of his friends, he could not get out. They finally left him there in despair. The next day, one of his friends saw him, chipper as you please, and no longer in the rut.

"What are you doing here?" the friend asked. "I thought you couldn't get out."

"I couldn't," the frog replied, "but a truck came along and I had to."

WOMEN ARE REALISTS

"Women," says an American psychologist, "are the realists and men the sentimentalists." There is a good deal of truth in that aphorism. Women—as wives and mothers and lovers—are "close to the earth." They do not get carried away by the emotion of the moment. The truth is that, whatever the romantics may say, it is the woman in the home who safeguards the bread and butter, who sees to the practical problems of clothing, feeding and educating children. And it is also the woman who, before marriage, endeavors to see that her man is nicely dressed, does not smoke or drink too much, and is not carried away by the enthusiasm of the moment.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

THE "ONE-HORSE TOWN"

It is difficult to think back far enough to when any American town could seriously be characterized as having only one horse. Indeed, one may hope that the time does not come when any town might have only one horse—or no horse—because horse-power has become too old-fashioned for America!

Exactly where or when the words were first spoken in the sense in which they are familiar in common speech today, or whose imagination furnished the idea, this column cannot say. It is certain that the expression is an Americanism of the native brew called slang.

If the vintage can be stated from the earliest recorded usage, it is not very old: the second half of the nineteenth century was in progress before any note was made of it. There is some controversy as to where it turned up first, as it appeared almost simultaneously in widely separated sections of the country. This is logical enough—though, as we know, logic does not always have a part in the start of our common sayings — because America was starting at that time vaguely and restlessly stirring with but beginning to move out of the out knowing just where it was going horse-and-buggy age.

Hi there, friends! MERRY CHRISTMAS

At the Theatres

ATLAS THEATRE Olivia DeHavilland plays a leading role in the production "To Each His Own." It deals with complications centred about the love of a small boy toward his foster parents. It is an intimate and emotional love drama.

ODEON THEATRE If there is any doubt about the versatility of Charles Laughton as an actor, it was settled to the satisfaction of all on the set for "The Girl From Manhattan." Dorothy Lamour and George Montgomery also play leading roles in the production. Laughton plays the role of a genial bishop whose duties include the keeping of his newest protege out of harm's way, helping lift a mortgage and smiling on romance.

PLAZA THEATRE A musical extravaganza "On the Avenue," stars Alice Faye, Madeline Carroll and Dick Powell. On the same showing is "Prisoner of Shark Island," a thrilling picture with Warner Baxter in the leading role.

Amusements

ON THE STAGE

Royal — Stage attraction "Beauty and the Beast," a Christmas pantomime. Starting time, 8:15 p.m.

ON THE SCREEN

Capitol — "Sealed Verdict," starring Ray Milland and Florence Marly.

Dominion — "Disaster," with Richard Denning, Will Wright and Trudy Marshall.

Oak Bay — "The Best Years of Our Lives," starring Myrna Loy, Fredric March, Teresa Wright, Dana Andrews and Virginia Mayo.

Plaza — "On the Avenue" with Alice Faye, Madeline Carrol and Dick Powell.

Odeon — "The Girl From Manhattan," with Dorothy Lamour, Charles Laughton and George Montgomery.

Atlas — "To Each His Own," with Olivia DeHavilland and Phillip Terry.

York International — "Harpoon," with James Cardwell and John Bromfield.

CAPITOL THEATRE Out of the seething cauldron of trouble and danger that is Germany today comes the first motion picture to dramatize the part played by the Allies in bringing the Nazis to justice. "Sealed Verdict," which stars Ray Milland and Florence Marly. Milland plays the role of a prosecuting attorney in connection with the German war crimes trials. Miss Marly, famous European star, is introduced to North American audiences in this production.

DOMINION THEATRE A picture full of action is "Disaster," which stars Richard Denning. The story is one of the dangers of being a steeplejack. Denning appears as a hunted man, wanted for murder. He takes to steeplejacking in an effort to escape police.

YORK INTERNATIONAL THEATRE Intrigue, revenge and bitter, deadly strife among a tough breed of he-men who hunt the whale, walrus and seal in Far Northern waters—that is the story set out in "Harpoon." This picture was filmed entirely in an authentic locale. Its cast and crew spent nearly five months in the sub-Arctic and Arctic regions. Scenes include harpooning of whales. This is a picture of adventure and excitement you will not forget.

THE CRAFT OF SLY OLD MAN COYOTE

To be crafty is to be clever, smart, to use your wits so that others may not get the best of you. When Danny Meadow Mouse fooled Old Man Coyote by digging down into the tunnel of Miner the Mole, and so getting away just when Old Man Coyote had been so sure of catching him. Old Man Coyote had admitted to himself that Danny had been too smart for him this time and had walked away in the moonlight intending to hunt somewhere else for his dinner. You remember that Danny had peeped out and seen him go.

Now naturally Old Man Coyote had felt a little foolish and upset at being cheated out of a dinner he had been so sure of and naturally as he trotted along he kept thinking about it. He had gone some little distance when a new thought struck him. He stopped and thoughtfully scratched one ear.

"If Danny's in he must come out,
And that's the time to be about"

said he. Then, abruptly, he turned and trotted straight back, hurrying his steps a little and with a crafty grin on his sharp face.

"Danny Meadow Mouse saw me leave," thought he, "and of course he thinks I have given up trying to catch him tonight. I thought I had myself, but I haven't. He'll stay down in that tunnel for a while but just as soon as he feels sure that it is safe to do so he'll come out. Now what would I do if I were in his place? Would I come out where I went in? Not if I could find any other place to come out. Danny won't either. Anyone smart enough to get away from me the way he did is too smart to do anything like that. Then he'll come out and think how very smart he has been. The thing for me to do is to follow that tunnel until I find one of Miner's doorways and then hide near that and give that Meadow Mouse the surprise of his life when he comes out!"

Now, Old Man Coyote knows all about the tunnels of Miner the Mole. He knew that he would have no trouble in following that particular tunnel because when Miner makes a tunnel near the surface of the ground he pushes up the earth in a little ridge, which is the roof of the tunnel. When Old Man Coyote got back to the place where Danny had disappeared all he had to do was to follow that little ridge, he sniffed all about the little hole Danny had made. Danny hadn't come out. Of that he was sure. Then he made a discovery which puzzled him. That tunnel ran in two directions. You see, the point at which Danny had dug down into it was not at the beginning of it. The question was, which direction had Danny gone? Old Man Coyote looked first one way then the other.

"If only there were two of me
This puzzle would quite simple be."

he muttered. Then he grinned at his own difficulty and decided that he would follow the tunnel in one direction until he came to the end and then if he had discovered nothing he would turn about and follow it in the other direction.

It just happened that he chose the right direction first. He trotted along swiftly watching for some sign of a hole in the roof of that tunnel. Presently he came to a place where another ridge exactly like the one he was following branched off. That meant that there was another tunnel. Here was another puzzle. Which one had Danny taken if he had come this way? Old Man Coyote hesitated a minute. Then he decided to keep straight on. So at last he came to the little mound which Miner the Mole had thrown up and in the middle of which was his doorway. It was closed with loose earth, so Old Man Coyote was sure that Danny Meadow Mouse had not come out there.

He walked back a few steps and was trying to make up his mind whether to go back and follow that branch tunnel or to hide where he could watch this closed doorway. It was just then that Danny Meadow Mouse, trying to escape from Miner the Mole, popped out and discovered him. Danny made no noise, but a few seconds later Miner the Mole himself appeared and he did make a noise. Old Man Coyote heard him and whirled about. At the sight of Miner he forgot all about Danny Meadow Mouse. He made two long jumps. They were lightning quick, but quick as they were Miner was quicker. He ducked down and scampered back along his tunnel. Old Man Coyote began to dig furiously in his excitement and disappointment. Meanwhile Danny Meadow Mouse was running for his life.

Next Story: Danny gets a needless fright.

Java is a rainbow country, a fair and smiling land, fruitful, productive, and infinitely beautiful. From the air, it seems all jewel-green, slashed with scarlet, orange and silver that turn out, at closer range, to be frangipani and tea and slow-moving streams.

It is an island, set in the deep blue of the Java Sea.

In midday, the light can be crushing. Tropic heat slows you to a walk. But usually, in the late afternoon, you feel a warning puff of wind, the sky turns purple-black, and from somewhere out of the ocean, a rolling curtain of rain pounds across the land. It is so lush and violent that you can't see the street from your front porch.

"EMERALD BELT"

The other islands in the "emerald belt"—as they call The Netherlands Indies—also have their own rich beauties. The include Bali, Celebes, Sumatra, the Muluccas and Halmahera.

This is the scene of the newest political turmoil.

Together, the archipelago, long under Dutch rule has become known as "Indonesia." But the present Dutch quarrel is not with all the 70,000,000 people in all those islands. It is with a single Government, which took the name of the "Republic of Indonesia."

The Republic does not represent all the people, by any means.

On the contrary, it had its capital in Jogjakarta, smack in the centre of Java, and its authority reached only through a nearby radius and into portions of Sumatra.

ULTIMATE PLAN

There are ten other Governments set up in the remaining islands. They were formed by their own people. The plan, eventually, is to unite them all into "The United States of Indonesia." The Dutch would continue to play a certain administrative, but not the controlling role.

Here are some points to remember in evaluating the present inflamed situation between the Dutch and the Republic.

1. The Dutch have had no real quarrel with any of the other Indonesian regimes. In the three years since the war ended, and Japanese occupation finished, agreements have been reached between The Netherlands authorities and the other Indonesian administrations.

2. Just the opposite seems to have occurred in the negotiations between the Dutch and the Republic. In baseball parlance, this Government would be called a "hold-out."

Charges and counter-charges are flying apace between the Republic and the Dutch. They have culminated, now, in "police action."

It would seem significant that the Dutch have been able to achieve a working agreement with the other Indonesian regimes, but that one remained outside the proposed framework. Without the Republic, located as it is in the most fertile and strategically central part of Java, the "United States" cannot come into existence.

Red Skelton has finally come into his own in the movies. "The Fuller Brush Man" was awfully funny, but "A Southern Yankee" (Uptown) is funnier yet. There is only one thing to say against this piece of high hilarity—its comic highspots come so fast there isn't time to catch a deep breath between them, and one is likely to leave the theatre with sides literally sore from laughing. —TORONTO TELEGRAM

GALIANO ISLAND COUPLE TO CELEBRATE
Capt. William Gilmour, 86, and Mrs. Gilmour, 79, shown in above photograph, will celebrate 63rd wedding anniversary at home on south end of Galiano Island on December 29. Friends from many of Gulf Islands plan to visit popular couple. Capt. Gilmour is veteran of sailing ship days.

Cemetery at Ladysmith Scene of Hunt for Deer

LADYSMITH, Dec 21.—Ladysmith residents are all primed to wreak vengeance on a buck and a doe that pay frequent visits to Ladysmith Cemetery. On Monday night they broke glass wreath covers, ate flowers, and did other damage.

Latest discovery was made Tuesday when citizens went to the cemetery to place Christmas tributes on the graves of relatives.

A general cry went up which reached the Game Department in an official complaint that if the deer do not cut out their stepping, they will become venison.

Qualicum Hall Festive Scene

QUALICUM BEACH, Dec. 21—Residents of the district were treated to a fine entertainment at the Community Hall last Thursday. Elementary and high school students, under the sponsorship of the Qualicum Beach Parent-Teacher Association, joined forces to present a varied program of Christmas songs and carols, an operetta, "The Smiling Sixpence," sword dancing, two-part singing and a skit entitled "Whose Tooth Is to Be Pulled?"

The net amount raised will go toward the purchase of radio equipment for the school.

On Saturday afternoon, a P.-T.A.-sponsored Christmas party for preschool children and those of Grades I to VI, was held in the hall. The highlight of the party was Santa's arrival with a large sackful of gifts which he distributed to his young friends.

Saturday evening's entertainment for the high school students was a dance. Decorations were in the Christmas motif.

Patients Hear Yule Concerts

NANAIMO, Dec 21 — Nanaimo Hospital patients are enjoying a series of Christmas programs arranged by Mrs. W Hoggan, president of the Hospitals Auxiliary. Monday night it was Nanaimo Women's Musical Club's turn and the members gave much appreciated interpretations of Christmas carols. Mrs. Marjory Neave directed.

Last week St Ann's Convent choir opened the Christmas program. Following was St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church junior choir, under the direction of Miss Daphne Johnstone. Others on the program are High School Glee Club, under the direction of Andrew Dunsmore, Baptist Church choir, Rev. Duncan Ritchie in charge, and Mrs Gladys Swan's choir.

KINDERGARTEN PARTY

PORT ALBERNI, Dec. 21.—Children of the Peter Pan Kindergarten entertained their parents at a Christmas concert in St. Alban's Church Parish Hall recently when a capacity audience enjoyed the songs, folk dances and band numbers offered by the four and five-year-old children.

On Friday evening, final day for the kindergarten until the new year, the kiddies themselves had a Christmas tree with refreshments and games.

Help Hospital

CAMPBELL RIVER, Dec. 21.—Accompanied by Miss Pearl Lauren on a guitar, Miss Beverly Graham, Miss Shirley Graham, Cecil Woods, Miss Joan Biggs and Miss Lois Groulx raised $10.50 by singing Christmas carols. The money will be sent to the Hospital for Crippled Children.

Press for Road Survey

CAMPBELL RIVER Dec. 21—A resolution from the Campbell River and District Liberal Association requesting the Provincial Department of Public Works to make a survey and compile a report on the condition of roads in the area was endorsed at a meeting of the Campbell River and District Board of Trade. Oscar Thulin presided.

It was decided to ask the British Columbia Forest Service to make an effort to prevent trees from being blown down in Elk Falls Park during gales.

A motion was passed requesting the Provincial Department of Lands to conduct a survey in the district.

A letter from J. L. Gibson, M.P., informed the board that the Federal Department of Public Works intended to consider the question of a freight elevator for the proposed new wharf at Campbell River.

An address on land utilization and preservation was given by D. B Turner of the Department of Lands and Forests, Victoria.

Mark Closing At Parksville

PARKSVILLE, Dec. 21.—Parksville school closed for the holidays with a gay round of Christmas parties last week-end. The junior grades had their party in the Parish Hall, and intermediate grade parties were held at the school. The Parksville P.-T.A. assisted with refreshments for the younger pupils.

High school students organized a Christmas party in the Community Hall. The entertainment started off with an amusing radio skit cleverly acted by Eugene Murrant, Garnet Peterson and Joseph Stanhope. Martin Nash gave an exhibition of magic tricks, and following games and refreshments the evening ended with a dance.

All who attended reported it to be the best party ever held by the Parksville High School.

Show Pictures At Chemainus

CHEMAINUS, Dec 21—Pupils of grades I to VI held their annual Christmas parties in the classrooms last Thursday. Lunch was eaten in the classrooms from 11.30 to 12.15 p.m., at which time all classes adjourned to the music room to see a film of "Hopalong" Cassidy in "The Lumberjack." Children then returned to their rooms for Christmas trees and an exchange of gifts.

Grades VII and VIII held their party in the school in the evening. The first item was "The Lumberjack," followed by dancing. Pupils then adjourned to the Library for refreshments, which consisted of hot dogs, pop and apples. The party finished with the distribution of presents from a tree. Arrangements in charge of J. Rukin, principal, and Miss V A. Davis.

The staff members plan to spend the vacation as follows: Miss M Muskett, with her parents at Vancouver. Miss V. Fisher, with her parents at Steveston. Miss J Kerr, at her home in Kelowna. Miss D Schmidt, at her home in Brentwood; W. A. Corlett, at his home in Nanaimo; Miss V A Davis, Miss M Craig, Mrs M. McKay and Mr Rukin will spend the Christmas season at Chemainus.

Mr Rukin attended an executive meeting of the British Columbia Teachers' Federation at Vancouver.

Students Hold Annual Dance

GANGES, Dec 21.—The Students' Council of Salt Spring Island School held its annual Christmas party and dance recently in the Mahon Hall, which was decorated by the students of Grades XI and XII with red and green streamers, balloons, evergreens and a Christmas tree.

The prize waltz was won by Betty Forsen and Ronald Forsen, elimination dance, Stephania Malcsewski and Jack Hayes, and spot dance, Thomas Toynbee and Lorraine Kilburn.

Supper was under the convenorship of Yvonne Mouat and Kay Wood. A presentation to the teachers, O. B. Foubister, Miss R Oulton and Miss Olive Mouat, was made on behalf of the council by its president, Thomas Oale.

New Port Alderman

WILLIAM JOHNSTONE
Mr. Johnstone was elected alderman at Port Alberni last week. Others were Ald. A. C. Flanagan, who headed poll, and Ald. Maurice Wren.

Club Sponsors Turkey Shoot

GANGES, Dec. 21—Sponsored by the Salt Spring Island Rod and Gun Club, a turkey and chicken shoot was held recently on the grounds of Harbor House Hotel, Ganges. Most of the events were run off by open sights and others by peep sights, at a distance of 100 yards.

Prize winners were: Turkeys: Miss Denise Crofton, R. Akerman, E. I. Borradaile, S. La Fortune, Fred Morris, M. Mouat, Gordon Parsons and E. Reynolds; chickens: Mrs D. McLaughlan, R. Akerman, T. Ayres, L. Lakeburg, Laurie Mouat and Gordon Padsons.

On Boxing Day another turkey and chicken shoot will be sponsored at Harbor House by the Rod and Gun Club.

Organize Party At Royal Oak

Royal Oak School children entertained their parents and younger brothers and sisters at a Christmas party held recently in the school classrooms.

The students spent many hours decorating the classrooms for the event, and each room was highlighted by a Christmas tree, presents, cards, and stockings for each guest.

Santa Claus and his helpers were chosen by ballot from among the students. Each room entertained with a Christmas program, and refreshments were served.

Request Light For Errington

ERRINGTON, Dec 21.—A petition to the British Columbia Power Commission for extension of services to this district, forwarded by the Errington Development Association through H. J. Welch, M.L.A., has brought results. A definite announcement has been made by the commission that extension to Errington will be completed by May 1, 1949 Grafton Avenue, September 1, 1948 and Church Road and Alberni Highway Junction, December 31, 1948.

Cowichan Area Pupils Active

COBBLE HILL, Dec. 21—The three elementary schools in South Cowichan district held their annual Christmas entertainment prior to closing for the holidays last week.

In Cobble Hill, Mill Bay and Sylvania schools, pupils took part in the concerts which consisted of carols, choruses, recitations, plays and dances. Santa Claus attended each party, distributing gifts to each child from decorated trees, and refreshments were served to the children and their parents and friends.

Great credit is due the teachers, Miss Queenie Brander of Sylvania, Miss Nelson of Mill Bay and Miss Newnes and Miss McLean of Cobble Hill, for the way the children were trained.

Mysterious Gas Causes Trouble at Cumberland

CUMBERLAND, Dec. 21. — Four Cumberland employees of the Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Ltd., are in hospital after being exposed to a mysterious gas, thought to spring from an old mine waste dump.

The four are Jack Marpole, Samuel Jones, R. T. Brown and A. Watson. A leak in a pipe running under the office in which they were working is thought to have sent hot air into the waste, developing a pocket of gas. They were unconscious when taken to hospital.

Card Party At Brentwood

A successful 500 party was held on Saturday night by the Brentwood Women's Institute in the hall, 33 tables being in play. Mr Maurice Atkins acted as master of ceremonies. Prizes for first lady and gentleman were won by Mr. and Mrs. A. Doney; second, Mrs Breitenbach. Mr. Stan Fox won the cup over Mr. Art Skinner who took the third gentleman's prize; third lady, Mrs. T. Stevenson. Gentleman's consolation was awarded to Mr J. Smethurst, lady's to Tom Alexander who subbed as a woman player. Mr. George Moody and Mr. Prescott Moody helped at the door and with the games afterward.

Doreen Birchall, R. W. Ross Married at Quiet Ceremony

At a quiet ceremony in the presence of the immediate family and friends, Doreen Mary Birchall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Birchall, 1681 Hampshire Road, exchanged marriage vows with Robert William Ross, son of Mr and Mrs. J. J. Ross, 3650 Iona Drive, before the Rev. T. G. Griffiths in St Aidan's Church last evening.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr Gordon Birchall, owing to the illness of her father. For a wedding ensemble she chose a suit of imported twilight blue gabardine with hat and accessories of elephant grey and a corsage of orchids.

Miss Iris Birchall attended her sister and wore a suit of soft green accented with black accessories.

Mr. George Ross was best man for his brother and Mr. David Ross, another brother, ushered.

Following the ceremony a small reception was held at the bride's home, the couple leaving later for a honeymoon at Forbidden Plateau. For travelling the bride donned a grey topcoat over her wedding ensemble. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Ross will reside in Victoria.

Honored at Tea

Mrs. M. Fairclough, who is leaving Cobble Hill after the new year, was honored recently at a social and tea, held at the vicarage of St. John's Church. Members of the church committee, W.A., and Chancel Guild attended. Rev. E. M. Willis spoke briefly in appreciation of the work Mrs. Fairclough had performed for the parish during her years of residence here. On behalf of the W.A., he presented a small gift, Mr. R. B Moulton presented one from the committee, and Mrs. C. Perks a gift from the Chancel Guild. Tea was served during the afternoon.

Miss L. Joyce and Miss E Clow also entertained in honor of Mrs. Fairclough, inviting several friends for a social evening.

Send 21 Parcels To Liverpool

The Cobble Hill-Shawnigan Lake Mothers' Union met recently at the home of the enrolling member, Mrs. E. Bamber. Rev. E. M. Willis conducted the devotional period and gave a talk on the "Real Meaning of Christmas."

Mrs. W. J. Freeman, work convener, reported that the 21st parcel of knitted garments, clothes and blankets had been forwarded to the Child Welfare Association in Liverpool.

Tea hostesses were Mrs. Bamber and Mrs. Naylor.

Qualicum Bazaar Realizes $170

Pythian Sisters Sunset Temple No. 24 held their first bazaar and tea in the Community Hall recently. Guests were received by P.C. Sister A. Little and P.C. Sister M. Reid, with C.C. Brother J. Kinkade opening the bazaar, at which approximately $170 was realized.

Father Christmas, under direction of Sister J. Strain, distributed gifts from a gaily decorated Christmas tree to the younger guests and those in charge of the various stalls were: Home cooking, Sisters A. Herbert, E. Kinkade and R. Badger; fancywork and sewing, Sisters E. Mandel, A Mitchell, Sr., and M Smith; white elephant, Sisters M Sackett, L. Bruce and A. Gorrick; candy, Sisters V Good and M. Bulman. Tea tickets, Sister A. Glassford; tea was prepared by Sisters P. Gillan, S. Henderson and G Mountain, with serviteurs Sisters E. Mitchell, A. Mitchell, R. Hilliar and A. Ross. General convener was Sister P Gillan and the afternoon proved a great success both socially and financially.

SUVA, Fiji (CP).—The Fiji Gifts for Britain Committee allotted $4,000 for the purchase of food for distribution to British schoolchildren. The food parcels will be sent in bulk from Australia and distributed by the Children's World Community Chest.

Brentwood W.I. Elects Officers

The annual meeting of the Brentwood Women's Institute was held in the hall recently with Mrs. G. V. Williams in the chair. The reports of the president, secretary, Mrs. C. Woodward and treasurer Miss D. Woodward, were presented, also a report by Mrs. G. D. Moody for the house committee which showed a profitable year with much work accomplished including remodeling of the kitchen.

The meeting voted $10 for the U.E.F.B. and more will be sent after Christmas. The sum of $15 was also voted to pay the league fees for 1949 for the Brentwood Aces.

Mrs. T Baddon moved a vote of thanks to the president, secretary and treasurer for their work during the past year and the president, who retired after three years in office, was presented with a black handbag in appreciation of her services.

The annual election then took place, resulting as follows. President, Mrs. George D. Moody; vice-president, Mrs R. Ronson, secretary; Mrs. C. Woodward and treasurer, Miss D. W. Worthington; directors, Mrs. W. P. Moss, Mrs. S. P. Moody and Mrs. D. M. Callaghan.

St. John's W.A. Elects Officers

Mrs. R. L. King was re-elected president of St. John's Evening Branch W.A. at the annual meeting held recently.

Other officers include Mrs. George Biddis, honorary president; Miss M. Scholefield, first vice-president; Miss S. Andrews, second vice-president; Mrs. Ruth Brown, secretary; Miss Madge Randall, treasurer; Miss B. Davey, educational secretary; Mrs. B. Tallack, Dorcas secretary; Miss M. Packer, extra cent secretary; Mrs E. Jeffrey, U.T.C. secretary; Mrs. W. G. Norris, living message; Mrs. Milne, social service secretary; Mrs. W. R. Roskelley, Columbia Coast Mission; Miss M. Allder, prayer partner, and Mrs. P. A. Goodwin, girls' leader.

Children's Party

More than 60 children attended the Christmas party sponsored by the Catholic Women's League held on Saturday afternoon in the Mahon Hall, Ganges, under the general convenership of Mrs. P. H. Newnham, assisted by Mrs. George St. Denis.

The hall was gay with seasonable decorations, streamers, balloons, etc. and Santa Claus (Mr. George St. Denis) presented gifts to the children from the large Christmas tree.

Carol singing, with Mrs. A. McDonald accompanying, took place. Refreshments were served and a stocking was presented to each of the children.

Fill Christmas Stockings for Solarium Patients

—Colonist Photo

QUEEN Alexandra Solarium board committees are busy the year round, but none more so than the special purchasing committee, chaired this year by Mrs. H. S. McClung, assisted by Mrs W. Curtis Sampson, a director of the Solarium since its inception, Mrs. G. W. Massey, representative of the Solarium W.A., and Mrs. E Glover, Women's Institute representative.

Mrs. Sampson and Mrs. McClung shopped for the many gifts required to make Christmas a happy time for these little ones who are looking forward to it with such eager anticipation. Although many Solarium patients are far from home, Santa Claus will visit each one and wherever it is possible will bring the gift most desired. A gaily colored Christmas stocking will greet each child on Christmas morning. Mrs. Glover and her committee were responsible for the filling of some sixty-odd stockings to delight the hearts of as many children ranging in age from tiny tots to teen-agers.

Nativity Play Maintains Quiet Spiritual Quality

Presented as an act of worship in preparation for the Feast of Christmas, the Nativity Play, which is a tradition at St. Barnabas' Church, is being repeated tonight and Thursday night at 8 in the church edifice. The congregation were participants in the service.

The presentation of the Christmas story is a most successful combination of pageantry, drama and music. The director has made excellent use of lights, various entrances and exits, and good grouping so that the large cast is handled smoothly, and the pace, while never allowed to drag, is the essence of dignity and reverence.

The voices are particularly clear, and the enunciation and variation in tone most effective. The simplicity of the blue-cloaked Mary, especially in the tableaux about the Manger, is moving in its sincerity. The spiritual quality is the keynote of the hour-long service.

As in the early days of the Christian Church, drama was used to remind and teach, so the Nativity Play presents the message of the Christmas season. Too often the overuse of certain production techniques comes between the message and the participants. This is never allowed to happen with this group.

Slight changes in the music have been made this year. Bernice Hughes, Phyllis Miller and Mrs. Jean Trotter sing as background choristers, and G Trafford played soft organ music. With these exceptions, the entire program is presented by the St. Barnabas' Players.

Rev. Eric Munn, rector of St. Barnabas', spoke briefly preceding the play, stressing the hope of those taking part that those witnessing the performance would regard themselves as participants rather than spectators.

"Star of Wonder" At St. Luke's

Under the baton of the composer Mr Eric V Edwards, L.R.S.M., A.R.C.T., the Christmas cantata "Star of Wonder" was presented on Monday evening in St. Luke's Parish Hall to an enthusiastic audience.

The fresh young voices of the junior choir blended delightfully with the firmer tones of the adult singers of St. Luke's choir in rendering Mr. Edwards' bright and tuneful music. The voices were adequately supported by an orchestra consisting of Mrs. G. Beswick, Mr. S Darvill, Misses Lillian Hawthorne and Eileen Orr, violins; Gordon Yong, cello and George Lynn, flute. Vocal soloists were Amy Walton, Faye Robison, Audrey Townsend, Joan Roberts, Elizabeth Bosher, Daphne Blake, Terry Melville, Robert Readings and Patrick Connor.

Community carol singing was led by Gwyn Owen and Mrs. Olive Lynn was the accompanist.

HONORED AT SHOWER

Mrs. V. Lindal and Mrs. Edie Duke entertained at a shower in honor of Mrs Vera Adrian at 1720 Midgard Street recently. The guests were Mrs Fred Adrian, Mrs. C. Thorsteinson, Mrs. E Thorsteinson, Mrs W Young, Mrs P Holhn, Mrs Bob Adrian, Mrs S. Lindal and Miss Mary Lopaschuck.

Santa Claus Arrives at Naden

SANTA Claus paid a return engagement at Esquimalt naval base yesterday and was met by children whose fathers serve in destroyers and reserve fleet vessels. The above picture shows the popular gentleman making an appearance in the gymnasium of H.M.C.S Naden. A similar children's Christmas party was held there the previous day for children of Naden men. Given a rousing welcome on both occasions, Santa took time out to chat with many of the children. Standing about the fireplace are members of Florence Clough's Dancing School, who presented an entertainment program

Yule Party Acclaimed In Esquimalt

More than 300 children attended the annual Christmas party held in the Esquimalt Community Centre Hall last night.

Highlight of the party was the arrival of Santa Claus who gave prizes and gifts to the youngsters.

Two entertainers, Albert Denoni and Roy Marquette played the accordion and guitar for the young audience while the Community Centre dancing class performed Spanish, Russian, ballet and tap dances.

A dance for the teen-agers and adults followed the party.

The party for children under six will take place tonight at 7 p.m.

CHRISTMAS CONCERT

The Royal Oak Baptist Sunday School held its first Christmas concert to a packed house, with all the children taking part. The program consisted of plays, recitations, pageant, vocal and violin duets, and Rev. G. R. Easter of First Baptist Church gave a Christmas message. Santa Claus was also present.

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

Social Evening Held Recently

A group of 12 girls from the T. Eaton credit office gathered at the home of Mrs. W. J. Morgan, 383 Sunset Avenue for a social evening recently.

Highlights of the evening were carol singing and competitive games winners of whom were Muriel Palmer, Joyce Rhodes, Lil Greves and Yvonne Chalmers.

Refreshments were served at the close of the evening by the joint hostesses Mrs W. J. Morgen, Mrs. J Slater and Miss Myrtle Dent.

Those attending included Mrs. E. Slater, Mrs. Yvonne Chalmers, Mrs. Lillian Greves, Mrs Joyce Rhodes, Mrs. Una Landis and Misses Muriel Palmer, Peggy Ray, Donna Posey, Barbara Ashman, Agnes Forrest and Myrtle Dent.

Chemainus Chapter Gives Donations

Arbutus Chapter, I.O.D.E. donated $10 to the Solarium; $5 for School of the Blind; $5 to Provincial Charities at a recent meeting. Letter was read from adopted Galiano School and eight new books were distributed there. Calenders will again be sent the schools, and also sold locally. Mrs. R. McBride was nominated for provincial councillor and Miss Esme Miles was received as a new member. An interesting paper was read by Mrs. L. Macham, on Christmas customs in other countries.

The Christmas meeting of the Victoria West United Church W.M.S. Auxiliary was held recently at the home of Mrs. G. Guy, president. Mrs. Girvin, Presbyterial president, gave the devotional following which roll call, treasurer's report and minutes were given. Mrs A. Hiquebran, community friendship convener, reported making ten visits to homes and three to the hospitals. Dr. Mavis Lee, guest speaker, gave an interesting talk on conditions in China today and stressed the need of Christian workers there The officers for the coming year were then installed by Rev. J. C. Jackson.

According to Culbertson

(Copyright, 1948, by Ely Culbertson)

An extremely simple point was involved in the defence in today's deal, but it is just such points that are overlooked by thousands of players—to their great loss.

West, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	♣ 1	♦ 4	♠ 4
Pass	Pass	♦ 5	Pass
Pass	♠ 5	Pass	Pass
Pass

East competed vigorously in the auction, but when North went to five spades, East was afraid that the opponents might take it into their heads to bid a slam, if he gave them another chance, and not knowing whether or not they could make their slam, East "quit." As a matter of fact, of course, there was grave doubt that North-South should have bid even as far as they did, instead of "cracking" East's five-diamond call. However, the difference in vulnerability accounted for their choice.

West opened his singleton diamond; East won and collected another trick in the suit. Then, with dummy out of diamonds, East looked around for the possibility of a trick in a different direction. "Maybe West could ruff a club." So East led that suit.

That was the finish. Dummy won the trick, and when South led a low spade to his hand, East showed out and established a finesse against West.

East was not very astute! The chance that West might ruff a club was virtually nil, considering his shortness in diamonds, but the chance that West could force out dummy's king of trumps and in that way set up a trump trick for himself was good! So East, of course, should have led a third diamond—and let West ruff with the eight of trumps, thus absolutely safeguarding his trump queen.

Banquet and Party Held at Chemainus

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO, Dec. 21 (CP).—Western oils climbed steadily ahead in dull trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange. Industrials and golds slipped quietly, and base metals showed a slightly brighter tone in late trading. Action perked up as the oils moved ahead. Key Western oils showed moderate gains, attracting considerable interest on the upward trend.

London Market

LONDON, Dec. 21 (Reuters).—Firm conditions existed in most sections on the London Stock Exchange. Trading, however, remained at a seasonable low level. There was a sharp change in sentiment in South Africa mining shares. An earlier easier trend was replaced by widespread firmness. Vigorous local and Cape bidding for some of the developing companies resulted in small gains after initial losses.

Winnipeg Grain

WINNIPEG, Dec. 21 (CP).—Coarse grains displayed a firm trend in dull trade on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as the market showed a pre-holiday appearance. Oats came in for mill and shipper buying, while barley received support from processors and shippers. Offerings were light in both grains.

The Other Christmas

Christmas—a time of candle-light flickering on happy faces, a time of carols and good cheer, of brightly-wrapped gifts and tinselled trees.

And deep within us all is still another Christmas, the Christmas guiding our every day—a Christmas born for us of a tolerance and understanding that goes beyond words; born for us so that men may live in harmony, with purpose to their lives and benevolence in their hearts... This is the other Christmas, the spiritual Christmas.

Says Future of Britain Dependent on Workers

LONDON, Dec. 21. (CP). — The Labor Government has told British working man that he is master of his own destiny, that whether Britain sinks or swims economically depends on him and his production in mines and factories.

The story is hammered home with pamphlets, posters, radio broadcast lunchtime addresses. It is told to men inclined to be suspicious of the "boss," and to grumble about high prices, short rations and taxes that almost put beer and cigarettes out of reach.

Government spokesmen say that despite such disappointments as the failure of the coal industry to reach its 1948 production target of 211,000,000 tons, its campaign is beginning to take effect.

The labor 'year in Britain, which produced only one strike—a two-week tie-up of London's docks as a result of $3,500,000—saw these developments in the production drive:

The Trades Union Congress, mother body of 8,000,000 British workers, began a campaign to carry the productivity drive right to the workshop floor; open warfare was declared against Communists in the labor movement; labor generally reiterated support of the Government's wages-prices-profits stabilization policy but warned prices can't go higher.

Working with the Government, the T.U.C., headed by 59-year-old Will Lawther, himself once a ex-(80-cent)-a day coal miner, has taken the lead to "educate" the worker on the importance of production.

Conferences are held regularly on production problems in individual industries. A T.U.C. productivity school for shop stewards is also planned.

Lawther, once jailed for six weeks in 1926 during mine labor troubles—and in the courtroom, where he later sat as a magistrate—terms unofficial strikes in Britain today "treason."

The London dock strike of last June was unofficial. It tied up 150 ships and forced the Government to proclaim a state of emergency.

The strike ended before the emergency powers were put in use but later at the T.U.C. conference at Margate, Arthur Deakin, leader of the powerful Transport and General Workers' Union, which includes the dockers, delivered a blast against Communism.

He demanded and got a mandate to pull British trade unions from the World Federation of Trade Unions which he said had become a platform for "furtherance of Soviet policy." Later the T.U.C. recommended that the W.F.T.U. suspend its functions and followed this with a statement urging British unions to purge themselves of Communists.

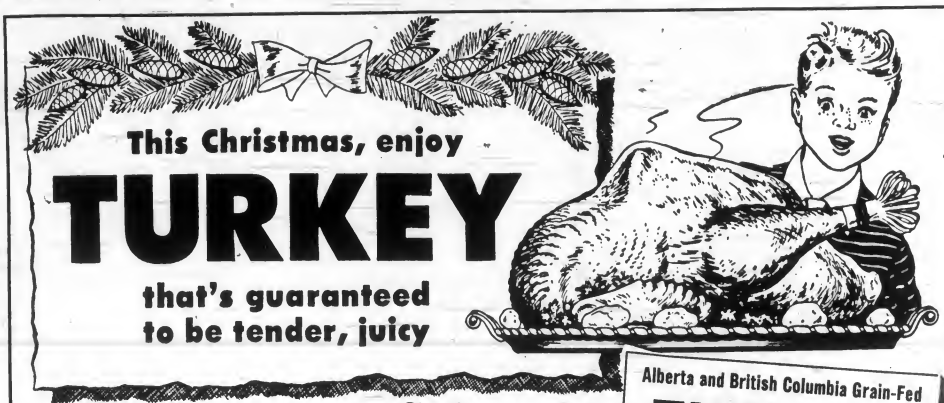

There was much talk at Margate about wages and prices but the stabilization policy of the Government—was again supported. Communist-inspired resolutions were defeated as were their candidates for office.

However, the left-wing publication "Tribune" said though the Communist challenge was beaten off "it was quite clear that there is a vast reservoir of discontent still to be tapped and it would be extremely foolish for the Government to assume that everything in the 'this with a statement urging British industrial garden is lovely.

OTTAWA, Dec. 21 (CP). — Creamery butter stocks in nine Canadian cities December 17 amounted only to 29,208,908 lb. as the same date last year, the Bureau of Statistics reported. This year's total included 4,414,690 pounds of imported butter.

CALGARY, Dec. 21 (CP). — Burns & Company Limited have declared dividends of $2.50 on Class "A" shares and $1.50 on Class "B" shares, comprised of 30 cents quarterly dividend and an extra of 20 cents in each stock. Class "A" carries an additional preference of $1.00.

Daily Astrology

By RITA DEL MAR

For Wednesday, December 22, 1948

Today's Quotation: "Goodness is easier to recognize than to define."—W. H. Auden.

Wednesday for Everyone: Get under way promptly if you would utilize to advantage the favorable portion of the day—which is early morning. Outline your objectives, policies, then. Later, proceed slowly, cautiously.

12 Wednesday, Dec. 22, 1948 The Daily Colonist

Look for your birthdate and birthstone below.

March 21 to April 19—(Aries)—Keep your mind at ease; don't let preoccupation with others crowd out attention to pressing tasks.

April 20 to May 20—(Taurus)—Yes or another may alter your sensitments today? Some hazards; don't "plunge" beyond your means.

May 21 to June 20—(Gemini)—Some gratifying results and glad tidings should materialize today. Rule out hasty revisions, whims.

June 21 to July 22—(Cancer)—Turn thoughts to objective activities; reach accord, make money-saving buys. Maintain accord.

July 23 to August 22—(Leo)—Put job, duty at top of list. Subdue temptation to spend too freely; check change.

August 23 to September 22—(Virgo)—Make safe, steady progress. Way calm while others play "prima donna" tonight.

September 23 to October 22—(Libra)—Discussions with neighbors, relatives, co-workers or some long over-due 'report may benefit you today.

October 23 to November 21—(Scorpio)—Don't upset congenial or monetary patterns in afternoon; get set for the unexpected.

November 23 to December 21—(Sagittarius)—Don't step on any toes today, pals are touchy. Emerge from your shell in evening.

December 22 to January 19—(Capricorn)—Keep your equilibrium despite instability of others; rivet mind on pressing tasks.

January 20 to February 18—(Aquarius)—Forward reliable deals; don't be beguiled by excitement which may prove to be expensive.

February 19 to March 20—(Pisces)—Get a lift from reports touching on pals, colleagues. Try to be self-reliant; don't ask for help.

Planning Ahead: Good for sociability, entertaining, etc.: December 26, 30, 31 evening of the 29, morning of the 30, evening of the 31.

APPROVE HOSPITAL SITE

VANCOUVER, Dec. 21 (CP). — Purchase of a $20,000 site for a new hospital for Seventh Day Adventists has been approved by the Municipal Council in suburban Burnaby. The $4,000,000, 150-bed institution will be built on a 36-acre site.

Meet Mr. Cornelius McGillicudy . . . Grand Old Man of Baseball

Tennyson's Brook used to babble "I go on forever," but there must have been drought some time or other. Not so with Cornelius McGillicudy, better known to millions as Connie Mack, grand old man of baseball, manager of Philadelphia Athletics. Connie will be 86 years old today and he's still going strong. Beginning his baseball career as catcher on East Brookfield team in 1883, he has been part of game ever since. You see him at left, as he looked in 1906 watching his A's from dugout; centre, surrounded by his grandchildren at one of Athletics' games last season and right, conferring with his son, Roy Mack, who assists his durable dad in managing Athletics.

Name Lynn Patrick Coach of Rangers

Frank Boucher Stays as Manager in Move Which Sends Neil Colville to Ramblers

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 (CP).—Frank Boucher today turned over New York Rangers' coaching duties to Lynn Patrick who moves up to the last-place National Hockey League club from New Haven Ramblers of the American Hockey League.

The 47-year-old Boucher, Rangers' manager-coach since February, 1946, retains his managerial duties but will devote more time to the club's eight-team farm system.

"I have been considering the move for more than a year," the Ottawa-born Boucher revealed at the New York Hockey Writers' weekly luncheon.

Patrick, youngest N.H.L. coach at 36, is succeeded as New Haven coach by Neil Colville, silver-haired Ranger defenceman and captain, out of action for several weeks with a recurrent groin injury.

SETS PRECEDENT

A star left-winger with the Rangers for nine seasons, Patrick is the son of hockey-immortal Lester Patrick Madison Square Garden vice-president and former Ranger manager-coach. It is the first instance in N.H.L. hockey of a son succeeding to a coaching job once held by his father.

It will be the first time Boucher has been off the bench in the 22 years he has served as player, coach and manager-coach for Rangers.

Boucher was an original member of the Rangers, who appeared in the N.H.L. in 1926. He was a player member of two of the three Ranger Stanley Cup teams 1927-28 and 1932-33 and coach of the third 1939-40. He coached the Rangers to the N.H.L. championship in 1941-42.

GENTLEMANLY

Boucher seven times won the Lady Byng Trophy awarded annually to the player best combining ability and sportsmanship. The cup finally was retired to the soft-spoken former R.C.M.P. member and another awarded in its place.

"Lynn was my personal choice as coach," he said.

As New Haven coach for 3½ years, Patrick has already directed five of the Ranger squad — goalie Chuck Rayner, forwards Dunc Fisher, Nick Mickoski and Ed Slowinski, and defenceman Fred Shero.

Born in Victoria, B.C., Patrick joined the Rangers in 1934-35 and earned all-star brackets in 1941-43. A younger brother, Muzz, is manager-coach of Tacoma Rockets of the Pacific Coast League. Lynn coached Ramblers to the A.H.L. play-offs last year.

Boucher announced that the 34-year-old Colville will be available for recall to the Rangers' defence. He starred as a centre from 1936-37 through 1941-42 between his brother Mac and Alex Shibicky.

When the Edmonton-born Colville returned from wartime service in the R.C.A.F. he found that he had lost the speed necessary for a forward. His efforts on defence were indicated by the N.H.L. coaches' award of a place on last season's second all-star team.

But he has searched in vain for his 100th N.H.L. goal since last January 8 when he notched No. 99.

Barbara Ann Tops Sports Poll; Horse Lover Is Lone Dissenter

By JACK SULLIVAN

TORONTO, Dec. 21 (CP).—Barbara Ann Scott's sharp-edged skates which have sketched international fame for her on ice surfaces from Sudbury to Stockholm, tonight brought added honor to the pert figure-skating queen from Ottawa.

She has been voted Canada's outstanding female athlete of 1948, the third time in as many years.

Sports editors in the annual Dominion-wide year-end poll conducted by The Canadian Press took one look at her record-breaking performances and decided she belonged in the No. 1 slot. The award makes her the first triple winner since the poll was inaugurated 18 years ago.

Announcement of the award coincided with the 20-year-old ice ballerina's professional debut in an ice extravaganza at New York's Roxy Theatre.

LONE DISSENTER

Asked to name the three individual performers among women, in order of preference, 26 of 27 participating editors gave her a first, and many didn't bother to record second and third choices. On a 3-2-1 point basis, the European, Olympic and world figure-skating champion received 78 points, 69 more than her closest rivals.

Rhona and Rhoda Wurtele, Montreal's identical-twin skiers who were bracketed as one entry by editors, placed second with nine points, and Viola Myers, Toronto track star, ranked third with eight. The one-two-three places thus are filled by Olympic athletes.

Thirteen names were mentioned. One editor, apparently a horse-lover, nominated Victory Gift, Winnipeg-bred mare and winner of the Canadian Derby and other big stake races for three-year-olds, as his choice.

This was a "Barbara Ann Scott Year," just as in 1946 and 1947 when she dominated the women's sports scene.

SPECTACULAR CAREER

Every twist and turn of her skates in the highly-complicated business of doodling on ice sparked a blue chip as the golden-haired skater stacked title on title in her spectacular three-year climb to heights reached by few athletes. She took every amateur honor in sight, and there wasn't an opponent, anywhere, to match her skill.

It was the same wherever she went—Copenhagen, Davos, Stockholm, Zurich, St. Moritz, London, Paris, Oslo, Prague, Lausanne. Newspapermen and photographers haunted her; movie and ice-extravaganza scouts shadowed her; crowds jostled for her autograph; strangers stuck presents in her hands, and her picture sold on street corners.

Two sour-grape incidents were injected at the height of her career—and both added to her fame.

Doting Ottawa citizens gave "B.A." a canary-colored automobile in 1947 but she returned it when there was a howl she might lose a chance of competing in the Winter Olympics if she held it. A few months later a Swiss instructor in London lampooned her with the title of "Weakest skater to hold a world championship in years."

Canadians were highly indignant over both but "B.A." was unruffled. The Swiss instructor was on hand to see her win the big titles at Prague, St. Moritz and Davos, and she got the car back this Summer when she joined the professional ranks.

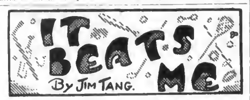

Star Placed Sixth Irate at Ranking

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Dec. 21 (AP). — Patricia Canning Todd said today that the committees of the United States Lawn Tennis Association who rank players are "doddering old fogies."

Her comment was in connection with her accusation that the association was unfair in dropping her to sixth in the United States rankings. She was fourth last year.

Members of the ranking committees, Mrs. Todd declared, "didn't see 90 per cent of the matches they base their rankings on."

Mrs. Todd won the 1948 United States indoor singles title and was a runner-up at Wimbledon.

An article in the current issue of Look, by Sports Editor Tim Cohane, states that Joe Louis will never retire as undefeated heavyweight champion of the world, but will eventually lose his title in the ring. Cohane cites the Louis finances—or lack of them—as the reason for his statement.

He says Louis owes Mike Jacobs $260,000 and the United States Government $175,000 and has to keep on fighting to pay off these debts and to enable him to live the way he likes. Cohane claims Louis' annuities will bring in only $50 a week and that the champion has liquidated all his real estate holdings. For these reasons and because of his expensive way of life, Cohane says that Louis must keep on fighting. He concludes:

"Joe's simplicity, naturalness and utter honesty have made him a paragon of behavior for professional boxers. His greatness and dignity would still go down in history, little altered, if he retired undefeated. That is what the fans would remember. Unfortunately it isn't going to be that way. Joe Louis will fight again and he will lose his title."

Cohane may be right, but there is another angle which makes it about an even bet that Louis won't fight again or, if he does, that he will win and then retire for good.

Needing money, Louis reneged on his retirement announcement to state that he would defend his championship if a "suitable" opponent could be found. This announcement was necessary if he was to cash in on his exhibition tour. Few people would pay to see him in action if he wasn't still champion in name, or if they believed he would not defend his title again. His exhibition jaunt has already paid him over $100,000 and there is that much more at least coming up. Meanwhile, he has a perfect out.

Louis has his pride and his undefeated record means so much to him that he is not likely to risk it unless absolutely necessary and under the current plan, it may not be necessary. He may realize enough from exhibitions to announce that there is no "suitable" opponent and then retire for good. If his returns are not great enough, he can select an opponent with care and safely defend his championship for one last big purse. Whatever happens, the gullible public will continue to pay.

Canuck Owner To Help Out School Hockey

VANCOUVER, Dec. 21 (CP) — Owner Coley Hall of the Pacific Coast League's Canucks today pledged his organization to assist in a revival of high school hockey in Vancouver in the 1949-50 season.

Hall made his offer following pleas from school students and parents who said, in effect, they would gladly swap Vancouver for a wind-swept prairie "cold town"—as long as hockey was included.

Hall said he was prepared to provide high schools with sweaters, equipment and professional coaching talent—Bill Cowley, his Canuck coach—to pay ice charges, if any, and donate trophies.

Stamps Absorb 4-0 Blanking At Lethbridge

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Dec. 21 (CP) —Lethbridge Maple Leafs tonight went into a two-way tie for third place in the Western Canada Senior Hockey League with Calgary Stampeders by defeating Stamps, 4-0, on home ice before 2,000 fans.

Mallie Hughes starred in Leafs' nets, earning his first shutout of the season during frantic Stampeder attacks. Expert defence work kept Stamps away from him early in the game but in the scoreless second and late in the third Stamps tried hard to get on the score sheet.

Don Menzies started the third period with a bang for Leafs, whacking in two counters in 11 seconds. Bob Kirkpatrick and Steve Latoski were the other Leafs' marksmen.

Leafs outshot and outplayed Stamps during the first period, Calgary never getting a shot on Mallie Hughes until after the seven-minute mark. Dertell stopped 14 shots compared with five saves by Hughes in Lethbridge nets.

Mining Company Offers To Build Arena at Trail

TRAIL, Dec. 21 (CP).—R. W. Diamond, vice-president of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Canada, today said the company has offered to build a $500,000 sports arena to be donated to the city.

He made the announcement in outlining plans for company donations to recreational and cultural facilities which include increasing gifts from $65,000 to $130,000 in Kimberley. This money will be available on the basis of two for every one dollar subscribed by other groups or individuals.

At Rossland, grants—on the same basis as the Kimberley one—will be boosted from $25,000 to $50,000. A grant of $24,000 will be made the Castlegar-Kinnaird district, and Fruitvale will receive $18,000 if the settlement is incorporated as a village.

The Trail arena will be known as the Cominco Arena and will have a seating capacity of 3,000. It will have a modern icing plant and will be serviceable for lacrosse, roller-skating or as an auditorium in the Summer months. Plans call for completion in 1949.

19-Point Showing Comes in Handy For Saanich Club

Cecil Handy piled up a total of 19 points to lead Saanichton to a 41-28 victory over Esquimalt in a Senior "B" men's cage exhibition at the Saanichton Agricultural Hall last night.

Winners built up a lead in the first quarter and went on to increase it in the second session for a 26-14 half-time count. Teams matched each other point for point in the final half.

In an Intermediate "B" girls' preliminary, Hepcats came through to a 25-21 win over Saanichton, although Audrey Pearson and E. Bowker of the home team topped the scoring with 13 and ten points, respectively.

K.V.'s Intermediate "B" boys handed Saanichton a 40-29 setback in the middle game. Parker of K.V.'s was high with 12 points.

Phil Marchildon Goes to Hospital

TORONTO, Dec. 21 (CP).—Phil Marchildon of Penetanguishene, Ont., pitching ace with Philadelphia Athletics of the American League, was admitted to Sunnybrook Hospital today for a complete checkup.

Marchildon reported recently that he "hasn't been feeling well," and that a Philadelphia doctor had found traces of amoebic dysentry.

The former R.C.A.F. air-gunner said he found it tough breaking into baseball again after his stay in prisoner of war camps in Germany. He hopes to be in top shape when he joins the Athletics' Spring training camp in Cuba.

Watson's Men's Wear, Toggery Shop and Harknett Fuel got off to a good start in the second half of Gibson's Senior Tenpin League last night by taking two games from Stubby's, Smilin' Ben, and Strathcona Cafe, respectively. First half was completed last week with the Cafemen finishing on top and Watson's in second place, to earn play-off berths.

Best performances were turned in by Harold (Stubby's) Paulding and Jack (Toggery Shop) Howell. Finishing up with games of 211 and 212, Paulding rolled a three-game total of 611 in a losing cause. Howell, who arrived in time for the last two games, started off with eight straight strikes in his final game. His first ball in the ninth frame took out only five pins and he left two standing with his second delivery. A spare, followed by a strike, in the tenth gave him a neat total of 251 which gave his team the edge.

George Cliff, also of Toggery Shop, went over 200 twice for a 572 set. Teammate Ron Wilson did even better with 578. Wilf Johnston and Ken Munn paced Watson's with 560 and 532, respectively, as all five of the Clothiers went over 500. Bill Holness, Bill Coates and Al St. Martin of Smilin' Ben, bowled consistently for 547, 546, 546 totals.

W.I.L. to Discuss Spokane Situation

TACOMA, Dec. 21 (AP).—The regular Midwinter meeting of the board of directors of the Western International Baseball League has been called to be held in Spokane on January 11, it was announced here today by President Robert Abel.

"The Spokane club is one of the most important members of the league and we must see that the stands are rebuilt in time for the opening of the 1949 season," Abel said.

"By that date we should know what sort of answer we will have from the insurance company. Much depends on what it will do. When we learn that we can then go ahead with our plans," he said.

Abel had no comment on the probable cost of the new stands, but was firm in stating that it was as much the business of the league to see that the stands were rebuilt as it was that of the Spokane club.

He said that no other business of importance was scheduled for that gathering.

N.B.A. Ring Rating Maintains Jersey Joe Logical Contender

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (AP). — Jersey Joe Walcott, or the man who can whip him, is the logical contender for Joe Louis' heavyweight title.

This conclusion was drawn today by the National Boxing Association as it announced its final 1948 ratings.

Fred J. Saddy, who heads the ratings committee, said:

"The logical contenders for Joe Louis' heavyweight title must always include Jersey Joe Walcott, and the N.B.A. believes that the final selection for a title match should be Walcott or the heavyweight who is good enough to beat Walcott in an elimination go."

Three new champions were crowned during 1948. They were Light-Heavyweight Freddie Mills, Middleweight Marcel Cerdan and Featherweight Sandy Saddler.

Saddy figures 1949 will bring three additional champions. Welterweight Ray Robinson and Bantamweight Manuel Ortiz are having trouble making their weight limits. And Louis, of course, is expected to retire.

CANADIANS LISTED

Johnny Greco, Montreal welterweight, and Featherweight Jean Richards, also of Montreal, were listed as "outstanding boxers" in their respective divisions. Arthur King of Toronto, Canadian and British Empire lightweight titleholder, was not mentioned.

The ratings, which cover the last three months of the year:

HEAVYWEIGHT

Champion, Joe Louis, Michigan. Contenders, awaiting further competition. Outstanding boxers, Joe Walcott, New Jersey; Ezzard Charles, Ohio.

LIGHT-HEAVYWEIGHT

Champion, Freddie Mills, England. Logical contender, Gus Lesnevich, New Jersey. Outstanding boxers, Leonard Morrow, California; Archie Moore, California; Bob Satterfield, Illinois; Lloyd Marshall, California; Doc Williams, New Jersey.

MIDDLEWEIGHT

WELTERWEIGHT

Champion, Ray Robinson, New York. Logical contenders, Bernard Docusen, Louisiana; Kid Gavilan, Cuba; Frankie Fernandes, Hawaii. Outstanding boxers, Charles Fusari, New Jersey; Beau Jack, Georgia; Gene Burton, New York; Tommy Bell, Ohio; Johnny Greco, Montreal.

LIGHTWEIGHT

Champion, Ike Williams, New Jersey. Logical contender, Enrique Bolanos, California. Outstanding boxers, Freddie Dawson, Illinois; Tommy Campbell, California; Maxie Docusen, Louisiana; Carlos Chavez, California.

FEATHERWEIGHT

Champion, Sandy Saddler, New York. Logical contenders, Willie Pep, Connecticut. Outstanding boxers, Chico Rosa, Hawaii; Tirso Del Rosario, Manila; Jackie Graves, Minnesota; Harold Dade, Illinois; Eddie Compo, Connecticut; Henry Davis, Hawaii; Jean Richards, Montreal; Charles Riley, Missouri.

BANTAMWEIGHT

Champion, Manuel Ortiz, California. Logical contenders, Guido Ferracin, Italy; Luis Galvani, Cuba; Cecil Schoonmaker, California. Outstanding boxers, Cal Kong Young, Hawaii; George Mousse, France.

Meeting Fails to Settle Referees' Strike

—Colonist Photo

TEAM delegates of Victoria and District Football Association and representatives of Victoria Soccer Referees' Association met with Victoria Soccer Commission at British Public Schools Club last night in attempt to settle differences between league and referees over fees. At the end of session no agreement had been reached. Referees offered to work for $5 per match with $3 for linesmen. League refused to pay more than $4 for referees, delegates pointing out that three second-half matches had resulted in deficit of almost $10. Shown in happier mood than results would indicate are: Commissioner Tom Carson; George Barnes, president of referees' association; Magistrate H. C. Hall, commission chairman; Reg. Clarke, secretary of district league; Commissioner Sandy Spiers, and Hank Castle, secretary of referees' association.

The Sportlight

By GRANTLAND RICE

The arrival of television has been the biggest boost that wrestling ever drew. It has been a big factor in building up that curled and scented character known as Gorgeous George.

Apparently quite a number of people want to know more about the Gorgeous One and how he functions. We offer you a perfect description from the classic pen of Bombardier Gene Fowler who starts out with the entry of his valet:

"George's valet loosened the seven yards of silken material from the body of his master. Before shedding his finery, Gorgeous George spread the bathrobe wide and within range of the television cameras, to give himself a draped background as he struck a plastic pose. This action brought on a new wave of boos and cheers, and the referee began to instruct the men. The referee chanced to touch the body of Gorgeous George. His Highness struck down the arbiter's hand as though to avoid contamination. And now the Tag Wrestling Event began.

WILD SCRIPT

"No doubt there are basic rules for this contest, but they soon were lost in the shuffle. There are supposed to be only two men in the ring at one time. A third or fourth contestant may not enter—or is not supposed to do so—until a partner reaches over the ropes to tag the other member of the team.

"At the beginning, Gorgeous George stood outside the ropes in the vicinity of his own corner while one of the Dusek brothers affixed a headlock to Gino Garibaldi. Then, when the referee's back was conveniently turned, the other Dusek brother sneaked into the ring and began to kick Gino, and otherwise belabor him until the referee turned his way again. There was more leaping and kicking and slugging and sneaking in and out of the ring by everyone. Finally the referee came over to Gorgeous George to admonish him against entering the ring illegally. Gorgeous George raised a finger like old Dr. Munyon and wagged it angrily at the referee. The referee inadvertently touched Gorgeous George's marcel. This sent the master into such a rage that he almost lost a bobby pin.

"It was best two falls out of three. Towards the end of the first act, Gorgeous George got into the ring at the very moment when the two ferocious Duseks were putting his partner through the washing machine. Georgeous George slugged both Duseks until they cowered in their corner, and George, somehow, won the decision for the first fall."

THE THIRD FALL

"The next fall, after a stormy series of acrobatics, was won by the Duseks. The third fall was a theatrical masterpiece. It seemed that Gorgeous George might win, but he committed a faux pas. He had climbed the ropes, and stood on the topmost strands that led at right angles from his own corner. This in itself was quite a feat, I thought, as George stood there like a circus aerialist. Now Garibaldi wrestled one of the Duseks within range of the perched Gorgeous. The plan was for George to leap from the top "V" of the ring ropes and, with both feet, land upon the chin of the Dusek brother. However, Mr Dusek quickly turned Garibaldi about, and both hooves of Georgeous George struck his own partner behind the ears. Garibaldi fell like a polled ox, and the battle went by the boards for Gorgeous.

THE AFTERMATH

"Managers and spectators now entered the ring to participate in a great free-for-all. This Donegal persisted for some three minutes. Police and ring officials pulled off various fighters, only to have them re-enter the fray. An occasional missile, including apple cores and bags of popcorn, showered down on the ring.

"At the conclusion of this melee, Gorgeous George made three starts for his dressing room. Each time he turned back to reach through the ropes to trip or slug the nearest Dusek.

"The last glimpse obtained of Gorgeous George was when he reached the exit. He was perspiring like a commoner, but readjusted his bleached locks and snorted like a Barrymore.

"Whether all this was wrestling or not, one would not say. The fact is, however, that the Gorgeous one packs in the crowds every week. He is doing just as well in the East as he did on the West Coast. It is said that he wrestles three times each week, and is making a fortune for everyone concerned.

Faithfully Yours,
BOMBADIER FOWLER"

Royal Forward Nears Leader In Point Race

Fern Perrault, Tacoma winger, scored four goals the past week to retain top spot in the Northern Division scoring with 51 points. Pat Desbiens, the Portland sharpshooter, notched three more goals to lead in this department with 27 goals. Stan Robertson, Portland playmaker, shares the top spot in assists with Bobby Love, of New Westminster, each have 32 to their credit. Love was player of the week with 10 points on his three goals and seven assists. Norm Kirk, his teammate, collected nine points with six goals and three assists.

Lucien Dechene's goal average of 2.86 per game is tops and his .902 percentage of saves is the best in the division. Tom Karakas has stopped 846 shots to date to lead in that department. Jerry Cotnoir, of Seattle, turned in his second shutout of the season to tie Dechene. Pete Tallifar, of Seattle, although only getting one minor penalty the past week, retains the badman's honors with 102 minutes in the cooler.

Sport Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 21 (AP)—Philadelphia Phillies, aiming for a first-division spot in the National Baseball League next Summer and a shot at the pennant within a couple of years, are happy about their assorted trades with Chicago Cubs . . . "We got about 12 years edge in age among the players traded, if nothing else," one Phils official commented . . . They're also expecting to get a lot of service out of Russ Meyer, who didn't do much pitching for Chicago after mid-season, when the deal that eventually sent him here actually was made . . . They figure he will fit right into a young pitching staff with such lads as Robin Robarts and Curt Simmons . . . and their catching likely will look better with Dutch Leonard gone. Dutch's flutterball was so erratic, they claim, that he couldn't cut loose with his best pitch in a clutch. There was too big a chance that it would get away from the catcher.

TRAINING EXERCISES

When the Detroit football Lions staged an end-of-the-season party the other night (and were they glad to get it over) they had a drawing among those present for a new automobile . . . Tackle Paul Briggs held the lucky ticket and bounded up with a whoop when it was drawn . . . Assistant Coach Timmy Temerario watched the performance and commented dryly: "If Paul would get off the bench as fast as he got out of that chair, he'd be the best tackle in the league."

CHEMICAL WARMING PAD

One reason why Philadelphia Eagles handled the ball so cleanly in Sunday's snowbound pro football play-off was that Quarterback Tommy Thompson used one of those chemical warming pads on his hands and all the ball-carriers smeared their fingers with some sticky liquid.

Li'l Arthur King, La Starza Rated as Future Fight Champs

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 (AP).—Arthur King . . . Roland La Starza . . . mark these names down. You're going to hear plenty about them in the next year.

Remember, too—Percy Bassett, Jimmy Flood, Maxie Docusen, Eugene Hairston and Joey de John.

They are all young boxers, battlers who are expected to move to the top within the near future. Some of them already are well on their way to the big time.

King, 22, and from Toronto, is a lightweight streak with a ra-ta-ta left hand and amazing poise for a newcomer. In two fights in New York he had the experts blinking with his dazzling footwork and speedy hands. He already holds the British Empire lightweight championship.

Dan Morgan, 76-year-old former fight manager, spoke thus about Arthur yesterday.

"King is always in a position to counter. He can catch or block punches with his hands and then shoot over his own punches in almost the same moment. You saw how fast he is, too. He's going to be a champ.

"La Starza has got everything a heavyweight needs. He's built pretty solid at his 190 pounds and he doesn't have to be any bigger to handle the heavies around today. He's a terrific counter puncher and if his opponent doesn't lead, La Starza feints and forces a lead. He's got a corking right-hand punch."

Morgan, a spry little man who has managed several champions, was the centre of a little group of boxing men who started to discuss the lack of promising fighters. When the boys got through mentioning names they found that 1948 had produced a much bigger crop of prospects than they thought existed.

King and La Starza were the main subjects of conversation.

La Starza, a 21-year-old ex-soldier from New York, is unbeaten in 28 fights. He started fighting professionally in 1947.

Indies XI Scores Cricket Triumph

NAGPUR, India, Dec. 21 (Reuters)—The West Indies cricket touring team beat the Central Provinces Governor's XI here today by six wickets.

The Governor's side lost its three remaining wickets this morning for 37 runs, leaving the West Indies to get 146 runs for victory which it did for the loss of four wickets.

Final scores: The Governor's team 139 and 184; West Indies 178 and 148 for four.

NEW SAN DIEGO GOALIE

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Dec. 21 (AP).—Jimmy Strachan, youthful spare goaltender for the Houston, Texas club, of the United States Hockey League, has been transferred to San Diego of the Pacific Coast Hockey League.

Gourlie Scores Kelowna Winner

KELOWNA, B.C., Dec. 21 (CP).—Kelowna Packers won their first game in three weeks of Mainline-Okanagan Senior "B" Hockey League play here tonight when they edged the second-place Vernon Canadians 4-2.

The victory leaves Kelowna still holding the cellar position six points behind lead-leading Kamloops Elks and two games back of Vernon.

The winning goal was scored by Bud Gourlie, centreman, who is getting back into top form after suffering a cheek fracture in a game here three weeks ago.

Other Kelowna goal-getters were Coach Ken Stewart, Smith and Marcoux. Dave McKay, Elliott and Loudon flipped home Vernon's goals.

Top Marksman In W.C.H.L. Is Dunc Grant

CALGARY, Dec. 21 (CP).—Dunc Grant, sharp-shooting forward with Calgary Stampeders, is maintaining his hold atop the Western Canada Senior Hockey League's individual scoring race, league statistics showed tonight.

Statistics released by League President D. P. McDonald and including games played December 18, but not Monday night's tilt between Calgary and Regina, show Grant has scored 20 times and assisted on 21 other counters for a 41-point total.

Seven points behind is Colin Kilburn of Edmonton Flyers, while two more Flyers, Alex Pringle and Morey Rimstad, are tied for third place with 32 points.

Continuing the Edmonton domination of statistical honors, goalie Keith Woodall of Flyers last week overhauled agile Bev Bentley of Regina for netminding laurels. Woodall has allowed 77 goals in 24 games for an average of 3.208 goals a game scored against him—just .019 better than Bentley. The Regina goalie is leading in shutouts with four.

No Agreement Yet Reached By Pro Rivals

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 21 (AP)—There was no peace on the far-flung United States professional football front today, but prospects for a settlement of the three-year war were brighter than ever.

One clear fact emerges from the meeting between representatives of the National Football League and All-America Conference.

It is this.

Both circuits are genuinely interested in trying to find some solution that will give club owners some greenbacks to go with their halfbacks.

They didn't agree on a satisfactory answer after 12 hours of discussions yesterday.

But you can't expect men to settle a three-year fuss in 12 hours. It was the first formal meeting between the opposing leagues since the All-American Conference was formed in 1946.

There undoubtedly will be more meetings, and each conference may bring the club owners closer together. There is a strong possibility that by the time the 1949 season begins the two rival leagues will have had a meeting of minds.

Left or Right in Hockey Makes Little Difference

By DOUG GREEN

WINNIPEG, Dec. 21 (CP).—The publicity release from National Hockey League headquarters which said seven of the league's top ten scorers "shot the puck in from the left side" has drawn the fire of Tony (Winnipeg Tribune) Allan.

"We are reminded of an old recording by the Two Black Crows, in which it was argued that white horses eat more than black horses . . . the reason being, of course, that the farmer had more white horses than black horses," says Tony.

"Quite apart from the obvious objection that the lefties greatly outnumber the right-hand shots, we must question the whole basis of the writer's argument. To support his theory that it is more effective to shoot the puck in from the left side, the writer lists the top scorers for the last 26 seasons. Actually, they were not the top scorers, but the top point-makers!"

RIDICULOUS ARGUMENT

An argument that it is easier to make an assist left-handed than it is right-handed is "ridiculous on the face of it," Tony goes on. For the theory to stand up, it must be shown that the top goal-scorers almost invariably are left-hand shots.

"In other words, we are not much concerned whether play-makers like Elmer Lach, Max Bentley, Bill Cowley, Milt Schmidt, etc., manipulate their sticks lefthanded. What we are after is evidence that it is easier to shoot the puck in from the left side. We are concerned only with the guys who score the most goals and which side they score them from."

Allan contends the statement that lefties have finished at the head of scoring parade exclusively for the last ten seasons is correct—in one sense. Ted Lindsay, Rocket Richard, Gaye Stewart, Doug Bentley, Lynn Patrick, Bryan Hextall and Roy Conacher all were left-hand shots.

But in another sense the statement is only 60 per cent correct. Although they shot left-handed, Richard and Hextall operated exclusively at right wing, and hence, in four of the years, the leading scorer did not shoot the puck in from the left side.

DIFFERENT STORY

It's true, says Tony, that in the last ten years lefties have done well enough in the scoring race. But, he claims, the preceding 16 years tell a different story.

And after calling the roll all the way from 1923's Babe Dye to 1938's Gordie Drillon, he comes up with the conclusion that right-wingers either led in goal scoring or were tied for that honor 17 times.

By contrast, left-wingers were the top goal getters on only seven occasions. Centres either led in goals or were tied for the lead on five occasions.

"It is hard to draw the conclusion from those figures that it is easier to shoot the puck in from the left side," says Statistician Allan. "In fact, the very reverse seems to be the case."

All-Star Squad For Holiday Fixture Named

All four clubs in the Victoria and District Football Association are about evenly represented on the 17-man all-star squad named to do battle with Victoria United in the Boxing Day exhibition soccer match for the injured players fund.

Oak Bay, Wests and Esquimalt each placed four players with Canadian Legion having five selected. Bob Preston, Legion, and Doug Gent, Wests, were named as co-managers.

The All-Star club combines a mixture of youth and age that could well upset the city's Coast League aggregation. United have yet to announce a line-up but may find their lengthy enforced inactivity a considerable handicap. The match is scheduled for Royal Athletic Park at 2:15 p.m. and will be preceded by a juvenile fixture between Heaneys and Veterans of France Division I clubs.

District line-up follows:

Ken Wright, Alan Wright, Don Robinson and Alex Walker of Oak Bay; Art Young, Gordie Hayward, George McCartney and Ken Druce of Esquimalt; Glen Robbins, Andy Anderson, Murray Speller, Charlie Sadler and Jim Carmichael of Legion, and Len Scott, Ron Bland, Gordie Cooper and Gordon Robson of Wests.

Langelle Doubles

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (CP).—Pete Langelle scored twice in the first two minutes of play tonight to help Pittsburgh Hornets to a 5-1 American Hockey League victory over Washington Lions. Win Mousseau got the only Washington goal, with Sid Smith, Fleming Mackell and Harry Psutka scoring the other Pittsburgh tallies.

TIREMEN PRACTISE

Douglas Tire intermediate soccer team will hold a workout tonight at 9 in the Esquimalt Athletic Hall, Fraser Street. All players are asked to bring running shoes.

"B" Cage Leaders Meet Cellar Team

K.V. cagers, currently heading the Senior "B" men's league with a two-point margin over second-place Brentwood Aces, will have an opportunity to bolster their lead tonight. They meet the cellar-dwelling Mount Tolmie squad in the feature game of the midweek basketball card at Victoria High School.

First of the three scheduled games will get under way at 7 with Hepcats engaging Esquimalt Genii in a junior women's contest. Elks and Victoria College meet one hour later in an Intermediate "A" men's fixture, and the main tilt follows at 9 o'clock.

GOOD BUYS
AT THE RETAIL WAREHOUSE our stock is very low. A combination of big buyer demand plus the fact that we plan some decorating during the Christmas holiday has brought this about. We thought we would like to reduce the stock but we didn't realize that by reducing prices just a little below our usual low prices that folks would just about clean us out. However, we don't mind, we will start out the New Year with a new stock of USED FURNITURE which will make everybody happy—buyers, sellers and ourselves. We still have one room in our warehouse full of good buys, such as five really nice bedroom suites complete with springs and spring-filled mattresses, priced from $110.00. A two-piece Chesterfield suite for $30.00. A bed-Chesterfield, $48.00. A really swell six-piece walnut dinette suite, $110.00. Almost-new Chesterfield couch in rose tapestry, $48. Spinet desk, $17.00, etc.

HAGAR'S OAK BAY

Artistic and designed for comfortable living. This true English Tudor home is located in a suitable setting in a desirable district. From a spacious entrance hall, you walk into a pleasant living-room with its rich dark woodwork, leaded bay windows and large fireplace lending an atmosphere of comfort. An attractive dining-room is next to a modern and compact electric kitchen, where a cottage door leads onto a cement patio. From the hall, there leads off a den, a master bedroom and modern bathroom, also a pleasing stairway up to two very nice spare bedrooms. A new, and one of the best automatic oil air conditioned units in the basement supplies the heat economically. This house is about eight years old, has the best of material and workmanship, and is in A1 condition throughout. The landscaped garden is not overdone and easy to keep up. For those who are looking for a home of this type, we feel that it is worth your consideration. Inspection by appointment only $14,750

Tides at Victoria

DECEMBER

[illegible]

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours (from midnight to midnight). The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

Stage Concert In Mahon Hall

GANGES, Dec. 21 — Under the management of the teachers, Mrs. E. McLeod, Mrs. V. Laing, Miss Dorothy Greene, Miss M. Bague and Miss Joan Wilson, the annual Christmas concert was staged recently in the Mahon Hall, Ganges, by the children of the Salt Spring Island School, Grades I to VI.

Children took part in a series of tableaus depicting the birth of Christ and the coming of the three wise men. Appropriate carols were sung, and verses illustrated the scenes.

At the party which followed, W. M. Palmer as Santa Claus presented gifts which had been provided for the children by the Salt Spring Island branch of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Names Church At Parksville

PARKSVILLE, Dec. 21 — During an impressive ceremony performed by Bishop James M. Hill of Victoria on Sunday afternoon, Parksville's new Roman Catholic Church was blessed and dedicated and named the Church of St. John Vianney. Nearly 100 persons attended the ceremony. Among those assisting with the service were Rev. W. H. Bulloch, pastor for Parksville and Qualicum district; Rev. A. G. Baker, Rev. A. McLellan, Victoria; Rev. A. G. McGowan, Comox; Rev. C. T. Albury, Ladysmith, and a group of the Sisters of Charity from Ladysmith. Acolytes were John Ferrari, Joseph Johnson, John Ferguson and Daniel Parker.

To Help Needy

ERRINGTON, Dec. 21 — St. Mary's Church held a white gift service last Sunday. Rev. G. T. Pattison preached. Gifts wrapped in white were received and will be distributed to needy families in the Peace River district. A children's Christmas party and school concert was held in Errington Hall on Tuesday.

Attend Event At Saanichton

More than 100 children were entertained at the annual Christmas party held recently in the Orange Hall at Saanichton.

A short concert presented by the pupils of Saanichton School included songs, dancing and recitations.

Santa Claus was present to perform his duty. Both children and their parents enjoyed the refreshments.

Those in charge of arrangements were J. Lott, Mrs. F. Watson, A. Johnstone, R. Crawford, Mrs. A. Mills, Miss Nordman, R. Boitallier, Mrs. H. Pacey and F. Wood.

Class Entertains

SIDNEY, Dec. 21 — A floor show was directed by Miss Gwen Joyce during the Christmas dance of the Sidney Pro-Rec Centre in the K. of P. Hall. Refreshments were in charge of Mrs. F. Spears. Prizes were won by M. Gilbert, Mrs. D. Spano, T. Morgan, B. Rogers, Mrs. B. Christian and J. McHarry. Pro-Rec classes will be resumed on January 6.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, Dec. 21 (AP) — Stimulated by short covering in the December contract, all grain futures advanced on the Board of Trade. Urgent short covering in wheat pushed prices up and absorbed all profit cashing. There was some exchange of the expiring contract for the May delivery.

Dizziness—Vertigo

By DR. J. R. WARREN

In most cases of dizziness (vertigo) the ear is to blame and the family doctor refers the patient to an ear specialist. The dizziness may be caused by too much water in the region of the ear, which upsets the balancing canals. Also inflammation of the middle ear may cause dizziness. However, other causes of dizziness are eye disturbances, infections anywhere in the body, high blood pressure, diabetes, kidney disease, sluggish liver and gall bladder, disturbances of the spinal column, certain drugs (quinine, salicylates, nicotine).

NON-VOTERS CRITICIZED

LONDON, Oct. (AP) — The London Labor Council advocated at a recent meeting that Londoners who fail to vote should be struck from the electoral list. Members were concerned with the low 42 per cent vote in the city's last civic election.

Jailer Denies Report Any Prisoners Sit Out on Front Porch---That's His

DANBURY, Conn., Dec. 21.—A woman inmate at the county jail here wandered into the warden's office today, smiled brightly and trailed out another door singing softly. In her arms was the warden's two-year-old granddaughter, Becky. This, and other fascinations, such as locking prisoners out of their cells, give the jail the atmosphere of a congenial boarding-house.

Maitre d'hotel is Godfrey G. Stanton, retired hatter and the warden—or more correctly the deputy jailer—who is his own variation of a Will Rogers without a rope. From all appearances, Stanton has converted a few rooms in his house to a jail, almost as a doctor sets up his professional quarters. Actually, however, Stanton is an employee of the county with family lodging in the jail.

HARD TO SPOT

The boarding-house—I walked past it four times before spotting it as a hoosegow—is an old-fashioned but homey building with a medium-sized front porch facing on the city's main street. Around the jail, giving a dash of color in the Summertime, are flower beds and vegetable patches.

Rumor has it that during the Summer, Stanton lets his charges sway contentedly in rocking chairs on the front porch while enjoying the evening breezes. But he scotched this report as nothing more than a crude lie.

"The front porch is for me," he said indignantly. "The prisoners sit out back."

Although Stanton has room for 31 "boarders," the current guest roster lists only 21 men and the one singing woman. He looks for a larger and merrier gathering before the holiday season is over, although he explains rooms are most eagerly sought in August and September.

"That's when we pick our garden vegetables," Stanton points out. "They're extremely tasty."

NO TIPPING

Food at this law-breakers' club—where the standard is table d'hote and all the bread you can eat—is done to a turn, judging from the fragrant odors emerging from the kitchen, and is served three times a day. By-laws of the club prohibit tipping and room service.

When this reporter entered Stanton's office — two chairs and a spitoon wedged between the kitchen and the woman's "block" — he was greeted cordially — after making it clear that he did not want to take up residence. It was at this time that the singing woman, Beatrice, 48, paraded about with Stanton's grandchild. The tot is in safe keeping since she has no money to be taken from her under false pretenses.

Inspection of the singing one's quarters showed them to be spotless, as is the entire jail. "We don't have a single bedbug," Stanton announced tersely. Lending a touch of intimacy to the quarters, besides a coffee grinder and washing machines, are a dozen or so potted plants. These are Stanton's cacti brought back by him from Arizona last year and cared for by Beatrice, who confided that "they don't get thirsty."

GRACIOUS LIVING

Beatrice also said — she had wandered back unnoticed—that her duties are the washing and mending, the washing being a major task since linens are changed every week.

In the men's block—a large room with the cells in a square in the centre—are complete facilities for gracious living, including shower and foot bath. Also there is a 250-book library, but Stanton declared plaintively that many of the volumes "aren't just right." Titles included: "Greater France in North Africa" and the "Outdoor Girls in a Camp Trip."

Motivation for membership in the men's department is chiefly intoxication, followed by breach of the peace and theft. The average sentence is five months, membership being restricted to less than a year. Ages range from 22 to 73, and the cost to the county of each man is 88 cents a day. Sometimes the men are locked out of their cells so they can't loll on the bunks.

WALKED OFF

Stanton, assisted only by a matron, his wife Jennie, and a deputy jailer, his son-in-law Frank Rossi, said that he has had only one escape in the last three years.

"One day," he related, "a prisoner who was mowing the lawn got fed up with the noise of the machine and walked off."

Repeaters are few, Stanton said, since many of the inmates are drifters. However, he recalled one prisoner, a boarder of ten months for drunkenness and breach of the peace, who turned in his blue denims at 10 a.m. one day and called him on the phone roaring drunk by 3 p.m. Commented Stanton philosophically: "He got his old cell back."

Water By-Law Receives Final Reading

Final reading of the Saanich Waterworks Loan By-Law was given by Saanich Council at its final 1948 meeting last night.

Council decided to instruct the municipal solicitor to prepare an agreement between the municipality and Rithet Consolidated, Ltd., in connection with property where the new 7,000,000-gallon reservoir will be constructed.

The firm owns the high ground about one mile east of the Municipal Hall upon which the reservoir will be built. Location of pipeline and roads to the reservoir must be mutually agreed upon by the two parties.

Councillor George Rudd said completion of the $370,000 water scheme will see the removal of most of the obstacles facing the majority of Saanich householders as far as water supplies are concerned.

Kiwanians Take Home 92 Prizes

A total of 80 merchandise prizes, and 12 turkeys, were taken home by members of the Victoria Kiwanis Club yesterday after their annual Christmas party and draw at the Empress Hotel.

Special prizes were awarded to O. B. Taylor for the manner in which he has handled the introduction of visiting members each week over the past year; and to William Darvill, club pianist.

The draw was conducted by vice-president Don Smith, E. P. Fox, and Mr. Taylor.

Among those winning turkeys were John McCormack, Jack Craig, M. P. Smith, Walter Jeune, Charles Mann, Rev. J. L. McLean, Norman Hill, Bill Hamilton, Harold Diggon, Jim Stinson and Percy Williams.

Proceeds raised through the draw will go toward the objectives fund of the club.

Firemen Quell Four Blazes

City and Saanich firemen put out three chimney fires and one rubbish fire yesterday.

City firemen got their first call at 3 25 p.m. to a chimney fire at 1168 Oscar Street. At 7:24 they attended another chimney fire at 1411 Government Street, and at 8:10 p.m. extinguished a rubbish fire less than two blocks away, in the alley between Johnson and Cormorant Streets, just below Government Street.

Saanich firemen were called to a chimney fire at the corner of Footes Lane and Glanford Avenue at 10:35 p.m.

GOES TO SOLICITOR

Saanich Council last night referred to the municipal solicitor the application of J. S. Pilson, 3894 Phyllis Street, to the Supreme Court of British Columbia for cancelation of part of Sochon Street.

Parliament For Boys To Meet Here

Older Boys' Parliament will be held in the Legislative Buildings December 28 to 31.

Nearly 30 members from various parts of the province will assemble in a session proclaimed by the parliament's lieutenant-governor, Dean G. F. Curtis, dean of the law school of British Columbia.

Premier of the session, 18th in number, will be Oliver Howard of Vancouver, who was selected at last year's session.

Victoria members taking part will be Robert Wetmore, Jack Houston and Daryl Logan.

The movement started in January, 1924, and is sponsored by the parliament committee of the British Columbia Boys' Work Board, an inter-denominational organization. Members, elected by Y.M.C.A. and various church groups, must be between the ages of 16 and 21.

Gives Last Reading To Licence By-Law

Saanich Council last night gave final reading to the municipality's revised trades licence by-law.

Revision of the by-law is aimed at increasing municipal revenue.

Since appointment of a full-time licence inspector, it has been discovered that the municipality has been losing considerable revenue through lack of payment of trades licences.

While numerous changes have been made in the by-law, strict enforcement is expected to bring in more money.

Christmas Party Held at Ganges

St. George's, North End, Beddis Road and Vesuvius Bay Sunday Schools held the combined annual Christmas party on Friday afternoon in the Mahon Hall, Ganges.

The hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. V. C. Best, Mrs. J. Byron, Mrs. Stuart Holmes, Miss A. C. LerNder, Mrs. R. A. Moore, Mrs. Gordon Parsons and Catherine Devine. Assisting them were Mrs. H. C. Carter, Mrs. G. H. Holmes, Mrs. W. M. Palmer and others.

Sixty-six children joined in games, organized during the afternoon by Ven. G. H. Holmes, and later sat down to tea served at a table gay with Christmas decorations. The Archdeacon showed four new moving pictures and before leaving they were presented with balloons, candies and oranges.

Teachers Plan New Fund To Aid Retired

British Columbia Teachers' Federation, sharply critical of the Provincial Government for failing to help superannuated teachers, will act itself to aid them and bring their plight to attention of public.

Federation executive, at a recent Vancouver meeting, approved setting up of emergency welfare fund, it was announced yesterday.

Every member of federation will be asked to contribute $1.50 a month for next three months, for the fund.

Many superannuated teachers are in "dire need of help" due to high cost of living, the executive was informed. More than 30 per cent of them receive pensions of less than $40 a month. The fund will also be used to assist active teachers who are financially embarrassed due to lengthy illness.

The fund, the executive hopes, will temporarily relieve their plight.

The federation made representations to Government last year in this connection, but no action taken.

Groups Cited As Red Fronts

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (AP).—The United States harbors 562 organizations cited as Communist or as Red fronts and 190 such publications, the House Un-American Activities Committee said today.

It listed the names in a 144-page pamphlet and said this is the first time anybody ever rounded them up. They came from official Government agencies—Federal, State and city, the committee said.

The fronts are Communism's "greatest weapon in the country today," the report said. It estimated there are hundreds of them. The committee's definition of a Communist front is:

"An organization or publication created or captured by the Communists to do the party's work in special fields."

To Broadcast From Nazareth

TEL AVIV, Israel, Dec. 21 (AP).—The voice of Israel radio will broadcast the Christmas Eve service from the Church of Annunciation in Nazareth, an Israeli Government spokesman announced today.

The broadcast will be the first in history from the church in the town in Galilee where Jesus grew to manhood.

In Jerusalem, Israeli authorities gave permission for about 100 religious dignitaries to cross the lines and join the pilgrimage to Bethlehem.

Buildings Burned

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Dec. 21 (AP).—Fire today destroyed two buildings housing four business establishments. A rough estimate of the damage was between $75,000 and $100,000.

Excellent work by Anchorage's volunteer firemen in ten-degree cold kept the fire from spreading to adjacent buildings.

CANCEL HEANEYS PRACTICES

Heaney's First Division juvenile soccer team has canceled all practices until Wednesday, January 5.

Forced to Pay Auction Fee

An auctioneer is entitled to remuneration and expenses if an owner revokes an agreement to sell property by auction, Judge H. H. Shandley ruled in County Court.

Judge Shandley awarded $148.16 and costs to the Financial Survey Ltd., licensed auctioneers, against Leonard Jubb.

In its civil action for general damages, the company said Mr. Jubb agreed to sell his city property by auction but revoked the agreement.

Judge Shandley said the owner may revoke such an agreement at any time before the auction but the auctioneer is entitled to be paid. The award was made up of $24.16 for cost of advertising and $125 as remuneration.

Pleads Not Guilty To Rental Charge

Mrs. Olive Smith, charged with two infractions of the Wartime Leasehold Regulation, pleaded not guilty in city police court yesterday.

Mrs. Smith is charged with collecting excessive rentals between April 16 and August 18 at 143 Medina Street. She also is charged with failing to apply for a rental fixation.

Magistrate H. C. Hall remanded Mrs. Smith until December 28 to give her time to secure counsel.

David G. Sloan is acting for the Crown.

Crash Kills Two

HAMILTON, Dec. 21 (CP).—Two persons were killed tonight at nearby Aldershot when a westbound Canadian National Railways locomotive smashed an automobile in which they were riding. Dead are Amelia Clayton of Hamilton and Oral Fletchet, about 40, of suburban Burlington.

Policeman Subdues Man of Strength

TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 21 (U.P.).—Patrolman H. W. Fleming observed a citizen pushing and pulling at a parking meter, finally tearing it from its sidewalk stand.

"And just what do you think you're doing?" Fleming asked John A. McMillan, 43.

"I'm strong and I'm testing my strength," was the answer. "Now I'm going to test your strength."

"Whereupon," wrote Patrolman Fleming after booking McMillan on a charge of being drunk and disorderly, "he was subdued and jailed."

Britain Began Hammering Out Shield In 1948 to Guard West's Recovery

LONDON, Dec. 21 (CP).—In 1948 Britain began hammering out a shield to protect the recovery of herself and Western Europe.

Foreign Minister Bevin took the lead in calling for a strong association of western powers. As early as January he accused Russia of trying to wreck a plan dear to his heart—the restoration of Europe with United States aid. In less than three months a five-power treaty had been signed at Brussels providing, among other things, for "collective self-defence."

Britain's traditional allies in two wars were the other signatories. France signed with alacrity. Belgium, Holland and tiny Luxembourg scrapped the policy of neutrality that had twice betrayed them and joined an association that promises to expand steadily.

The matter did not end with pious expressions of good will. Before the signatures had been dry a month, a permanent military defence committee had been set up and meetings were being held to clarify immediate problems.

The chief difficulty was one of supply. Canadian and United States observers attended, but their governments were so pre-occupied with their own defence problems that little in the way of surpluses was expected from North America.

PERMANENT ORGANIZATION

By October plans had advanced to a point where a permanent defence organization could be set up under Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery. With French and British aides he set up the structure of a supreme allied command that would begin to function immediately in event of war, and dealt with urgent and immediate problems.

Technical officers of the nations concerned consulted on such matters as standardization of weapons and unified training. Britain, which would bear the brunt of an air war, made aircraft available to her allies.

French pride suffered when Montgomery, rather than a Frenchman, was chosen for the top organizing post, although Gen. de Lattre de Tassigny was placed in command of land forces. Britain made haste to allay a French fear that took deep root between the wars—that Britain cannot and will not maintain in peace an adequate expeditionary force.

One of the first steps was to extend the length of service for her peacetime conscripts. Instead of releasing them to industry in growing numbers their demobilization was slowed and plans to limit service to 12 months were dropped.

Simultaneously the R.A.F. stepped up recruiting, the Royal Navy began reconditioning vessels held in reserve, civil defence plans were overhauled and a recruiting campaign was launched for the Territorial (Reserve) Army, which eventually will be sustained by a steady flow of army trainees.

Economic difficulties hampered Britain's remobilization plans, and training of new troops was delayed by the need of sending crack formations to Malaya. There they were employed in slow jungle warfare stamping out guerrillas who had threatened to set up a Communist republic.

The Malayan situation was regarded with particular alarm by Australia and New Zealand. Although the destruction of Japan removed their immediate agressor, both countries were strong proponents of a Commonwealth defence pact that would guarantee them aid if another enemy arose. For the immediate future it appeared as if they must rely on their own efforts.

Britain's difficulties in offering aid were aggravated by withdrawal of her troops in India. Some of them were transported to new bases in East Africa, which are rapidly being developed to protect Britain's African colonies and keep her within striking-distance of the Mediterranean.

One foothold in the latter area was relinquished in May when British troops were withdrawn from Palestine, ending a mandate that in its latter stages was stained with bloodshed of Jews, Arabs and the occupying forces.

Goat Goads Council Move

A COMPLAINT to the Saanich Council of goats kept in the basement of a Calumet Avenue home brought quick action last night.

Council decided to instruct the sanitary inspector to investigate the report immediately.

Review of Headlines Shows Berlin Centre of Spotlight

By the Canadian Press

The eyes of the world focused on Berlin in 1948 as the bomb-torn German capital became the nerve centre of "cold war" between Russia and the Western democracies.

Moscow set up a land blockade with the obvious intention of forcing the Western powers to abandon the city. Equally determined to remain, Britain and the United States organized an air lift to keep supplies flowing into their sector and that of France.

There were other manifestations of the ideological struggle during the year. Aid began pouring into western European countries and the Western occupation zones in Germany under the European Recovery Program. The Communist seized power by a coup in Czechoslovakia. In China, the Nationalists were driven out of Manchuria by the Communists. Nanking, China's capital, was threatened.

The Jews in Palestine proclaimed the new state of Israel as Britain's Holy Land mandate expired. War flared between Israel and the Arab state.

One of the year's few news bright-spots was the birth, November 14, of a son to Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip. Prince Charles is next to his mother in line of succession to the Throne.

But Commonwealth joy in that event was tempered by the almost simultaneous announcement that King George is suffering from poor blood circulation in the legs. The Royal tour of Australia and New Zealand, planned for early 1949, was cancelled.

TRANSPORT RESTRICTED

Russian restrictions from the Western zones to Berlin began April 1. In June the Western powers introduced new currency in their zones and June 24 the Russians retaliated by halting all land transport to the city from the West.

Negotiations in Berlin and Moscow for lifting the blockade dragged on fruitlessly through the Summer and Autumn. Despite strenuous Russian objections the problem was laid before the United Nations, but it failed to solve the crisis.

Pretext for the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia in February was an alleged anti-Communist plot to overthrow the Coalition Government. Eduard Benes, who opposed but was unable to halt the Communist mis-ure of power, resigned as President June 7, and died three months later. Klement Gottwald, Communist Premier since the coup, succeeded him.

The only rift in the solid Soviet front in Eastern Europe was a verbal conflict between Yugoslavia and Russia, which put the Tito administration into the doghouse of the Communist International Information Bureau. The dispute apparently revolved around Tito's determination on independent handling of Yugoslav internal affairs. Yugoslavia, however, continued to proclaim solidarity with Communist ideology.

Jews and Arabs fought intermittently through the year for control of Palestine. The Arab League declared war on the Jewish "rebels" immediately Britain yielded her mandate, May 14, and the new state of Israel was proclaimed.

The United Nations sought unsuccessfully to settle the future of the Holy Land. The best it could do was to achieve a partially-effective truce. The partition plan of 1947 remained in abeyance. The U.N. Palestine mediator, Count Folke Bernadotte, was assassinated in Jerusalem in September.

START OF E.R.P.

The United States Congress in April started the European Recovery Program by authorizing $5,300,000,000 for Europe for the following 15-month period and additional aid to China, Greece and Turkey. Supplies began streaming into Western Europe.

In March the Western European Union of Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg was created. The five powers signed a 50-year defence, economic, social and cultural treaty. At the year's end negotiations were under way for a North Atlantic pact embracing the five powers and Canada and the United States in a mutual defence scheme.

President Truman and the Democrats scored a stunning upset in the United States elections, November 2. Truman was re-elected over Thomas Dewey of New York State, the Republican candidate. Democrats regained control of both Senate and House of Representatives. In the presidential polling Governor Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, States' Rights candidate, and Henry Wallace, Progressive Party standard-bearer, trailed far behind.

The lengthy Japanese war-crimes trial ended with conviction, November 12, of Hideki Tojo, wartime premier, and other wartime leaders. Tojo and six others were sentenced to be hanged. Eighteen others received prison terms, 16 for life. The international tribunal found that Tojo planned and waged war and assumed responsibility for wartime atrocities.

India was plunged into grief by the assassination of Mohandas K. Gandi by a Hindu nationalist, January 30. But the deadly strife among Hindu, Moslem and Sikh in the newly-created Dominion died down.

In November Eire cut her last ties with the Commonwealth when the Dail approved repeal of the External Powers Act, under which Eire diplomats were accredited by the King.

Burma became an independent republic January 4. Exactly one month later Ceylon attained Dominion status.

Plan Party For Strangers

Strangers in the city need not be lonely on Christmas Eve.

They are invited to a party at the Y.M.C.A., Program Director Bob Morrison said last night. He said the party will be held especially for those who might otherwise have nothing to do. It will include dancing, carol singing and a Christmas tree.

He asked those who would like to attend to get in touch with him.

It will be the first time the Y.M.C.A. has held a Christmas Eve party, and officials plan to do it each year if attendance this Friday proves the success of the plan.

GEORGE ALLEN TRADED

CLEVELAND, Dec. 21 (AP).—George Allen, 34-year-old Cleveland Barons defenceman, has been traded for Defenceman Thomas (Red) Williams, 25, of Minneapolis Millers in a straight hockey player deal.

PLAY POSTPONED MATCH

Esquimalt Meat Market and Esquimalt Athletics, First Division juvenile soccer teams will play a postponed match at Bullen Park this Sunday at 2 p.m.

Family and Police Get Signals Crossed

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Dec. 21 (U.P.).—Thomas Bowman reported to police his wife was missing.

Officers found her all right. Then she reported her husband was missing.

An officer went to the Thomas home to report he was sorry but that no trace of Thomas had been found.

Thomas opened the door and said the whole thing was back on an even keel.

Growth Stimulant in Plants May Have Effect on Humans

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (NANA).—Mother's milk of the plant world contains an extremely powerful, and hitherto unknown, growth-stimulating substance.

It has been demonstrated in coconut milk. Small amounts of the substance also exist in corn in the "milk" stage. Both these milks are intended by nature for the nourishment of plant nurslings—seedlings in the embryonic stage.

Presence of this powerful growth substance has just been reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science here by Drs. S. M. Caplin and F. C. Steward of the University of Rochester. They were trying to make tissue cultures of carrot-root cells. In ordinary culture preparations they grew very slowly, even with the addition of indole acetic acid, one of the most powerful of plant hormones.

Addition of the coconut milk speeded the growth tenfold. The substance may prove to be one of nature's essential life chemicals. The nature of the material, the two botanists report, cannot be determined but they have carried out experiments which demonstrate that it is none of the known growth vitamins and none of the plant hormones. It is present only in the liquid milk and cannot be found in the milk "ash."

The experiments indicate, the scientists say, that the substance has a quite small molecule compared to any of the known vitamins or hormones. It apparently acts however, in a vitaminlike fashion, its essential function being to harness energy for the creation of proteins, the building blocks of tissue. There also are some indications that it acts in conjunction with vitamin A.

Although the practice has been without any known medical basis, it is pointed out, coconut milk has often been used for nourishment of human babies in the tropics. The newly determined substance may have an effect on all growing cells.

Girl Guide Notes

The 1st Central Girl Guides and Brownies held a joint Christmas party on Friday in St. Alban's hall. Guests were the Rev. F. E. M. Tomalin and Mrs. W. S. Emerton, district commissioner. Each Guide and Brownie brought a gift which she placed on the tree to be sent later to children in Europe. Games and refreshments followed. This week the Guides will sing carols outside the children's ward at the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Forest Fury

By OREN ARNOLD

CHAPTER XXIII—Continued

For a quarter-hour or so both were engrossed in the art of mailing letter, which is a fascinating hobby little while he had made a monopoly for anyone. Strangely enough Dr. Montgomery was completely diverted with from the serious business at hand. He never realized it, but he and Rosemary were like two school kids who had suddenly been attracted by something outside their serious in Bob's Forest Service car.

"Gee, it's almost half-past five.

Monty" Rosemary suddenly exclaimed.

"So it is!"

They were out to greet the others, speaking to four or five customers who were in the store now. Waipi was busily selling things. The four young people talked and laughed a great deal then Bob brought out the portable radio and turned it on again. Presently Bob interrupted the gaiety to address Rosemary direct.

"Listen, kid," said he, "since you are out of the dumps now, how about coming with me to a dance tonight? Over at the big CCC recreation hall. Hunh?"

Rosemary glanced quickly at Bob and Monty—Bob had said nothing about making it a party for all four—and then answered.

"Why thank you, Bob, but Monty took pity on me first. I was in the dumps as you say. He talked bidness with me and then offered to drive me to Flagstaff tonight to a picture show. Thanks again, though."

"Oh. Okay, okay, then." Bob turned up the radio music and dropped the dance topic. But he had ceased to smile. Monty beckoned Rosemary to one side, and half whispered to her.

"No, no!" he chided. "Go back and tell Bob you will go to the dance with him! My—ah—date as a matter of—of—will plainly you should go with King, for your own sake as well as his. He is the man you love, you have told me!"

Rosemary's mouth popped open in surprise.

"Oh! Of course, Monty. Honestly I—I just forgot!"

And as she walked back toward Bob, it occured to Rosemary that it was most extraordinary that a girl to forget, she loved a man. She was definitely ashamed of herself.

CHAPTER XXIV

The Civilian Conservation Corp for this area was encamped on a lower slope of Navajo Mountain about five or six miles from Rosemary's trading post. The guests of honor at tonight's dance were the state Corp commander and his wife, who were on issue of inspection from Phoenix. And because any dance in a wilderness country is a high point socially, "everybody" was due to be there.

Moreover everybody was. The invitation had been a blanket one. Men, women and children in all walks of life were welcomed, and so when Rosemary and Bob entered the big recreation hall they found it assemed almost filled. Not many of the men, it appeared, had fancy "Sunday" clothes to wear, for the miners were still miners, the cowboys still cowboys, the lumberjacks still lumberjacks. Clothes were clean, but rough. Even their girls and women were dressed in plain gingahams and simple house-dress things; quite a few men had on cotton stockings, and Rosemary noted at least two girls, girls who were no stockings at all. Probably they simply didn't have any sort of stockings to wear! All at once Rosemary felt a detestative sympathy for these folk as a whole, a loyalty and a love for them. She was somehow accepting them as her own, and necessarily her kind exactly, but her people. She set in to be as courteous and cordial as she knew how.

This latter was important. It made her at once the outstanding girl present. To begin with, she was exceptionally pretty in a way that employed all of youth's unspoiled natural charm. Second, she was "the new girl" of the vast mountain area here, was unmarried and so was a heart throb for every man present. Bob King squired her with justifiable pride.

The music hadn't started when she and Bob arrived. Five musicians, though, were set up in a little stage or platform in the middle of the big floor. There were two big guitars, a banjo, a large mouth harp, a fiddle, and a zinc washtub.

It developed that the mouth harp artist (he was no less than that) doubled on the tub. He had a foot arrangement that made the tub into a drum, and when he went "Thoomp-a-Thoomp-a-Thoomp" on it a body just had to dance! Rosemary wished she could also to be the craze man in the Peacock Night Club back home.

Leader of the band was announced as Mister Holly' Singletary from the Black Virgin Mine district, let 'er squirt, Holly. All in one phrase like that.

Holly immediately let 'er squirt. Holly was a man past fifty, maybe past sixty. His mustache, whiter than his face, was pointed and greyish, and his grin underneath was a happy contagion. He lifted his right foot—not just his toe, but his whole foot—every-plop, plop, plop, and on the third plop swung in with his fiddle bow. On the same plop the boys twanged their guitars and banjo, the tub thoomped, and the mouth harp sang. On that plop, too, nearly a hundred couples took their first dance step. Mister Singletary had known precisely how they would respond.

Bob King didn't dance as well as Rosemary somehow expected. He was a little bit clumsy, as if muscle-bound. He was prone to stay too primly erect, and she supposed it was due to his military uniform and manner in the ranger service. But she didn't mind! They got along all right.

She couldn't help noticing that most people looked at her. She wore a frilly blue dress this evening, and even though she had duck eyes and her hair could hardly be called blond, it was infinitely becoming. It clipped right at ten inches off her ago and left her in the high-school teens. The only jewelry she wore was a hammered silver bracelet which held a blue turquoise making her dress, a piece from her own store.

The crowd mixed at the end of the first dance. Bob left her with some acquaintances. The talk was pleasant and easy. When the music started again, though, she instantly saw Bob dancing with a tall droopy-eyed girl across the room.

Five or six CCC boys and some other men hovered around Rosemary as if each were about to ask for this dance but a trifle shy of the New York girl, when a little woman walked up with a huge man in tow. The little woman was indeed small. She could not have weighed a hundred pounds, and she wasn't much taller than Rosemary's eyes. She appeared to be twenty-five or thirty years of age, and was decidedly plain of face. Her figure could be complimented only by calling it "practical." Her arms were sinewy and her hands gnarled (signs of constant physical work. But she had spirit.

"Ain't this Miss Rosemary, ma'am?" the little woman began, in open friendly manner. "I ain't met her but I declare if I ain't heard a deal about you, and you turn up to be prettier'n sweeter than what they all say! Welcome to our dance, ma'am!"

A FLOCK OF LOVELY PEOPLE are sending us Christmas cards, and most of them have the factory-sentiment crossed out, and their own thoughts penned inside . . . it's so much nicer and more personal this way . . . and just like this, for instance:

Dear Mr. H.: My husband and I have a pet topic we worry around from tuna to nine. "Is Humber Corny, but good, or good but corny?" It's indeed moot, and we've developed the argument on both sides. The consensus now is that Humber is good, but corny. I used to think it was a prostitution of your gift, but the old-boy says it's probably money in the till. I have also wondered if you do, or would ever do later . . . any serious writing. I have now ruled THAT out too. If you were EVER going to be serious, you couldn't possibly bring yourself to murder some of the lovely thoughts and subtle phrases, you do come up with. Anyhow . . . we DO like your stuff. Can't you wangle the same spot every day? Before I forget . . . I think your advertising copy simply super. If we had any money, we'd buy you out. As it is, I send best wishes, & Merry Christmas.

Signed, M.T.

P.S.—Ask my husband & I are both writers, you can consider the above as kudos from your peers.

"PEER" AT THIS "super" advertising copy, while we bust in here a moment with a final blitz about our famous Trifles . . . Only 12 smackers, Mary . . . "simply-super."

ON THE BACK of this same Christmas card, the "old boy" has penned this:

Dear Humber:
I never feel the day would come . . . but it has. I have clipped and filed one of your columns in my note book. (The Dec. 10th on snow.) And I'm writing a letter to boot. I prostrate myself at the feet of your genius.

In reply to Mr. and Mrs. M.T.: Thanks so much for your "card." I am rather inclined to think you've right, Mr. T., if you must so settle the argument "you worry around." We are fundamentally a family of picture business, so the "money in the till" slant would seem to be nearer the truth. At least that's what we had in mind when we first tried to rhymth things up a bit, but strangely enuff, we are now just about as mixed up as you two are. We DO know, however, one can starve to death in the arty struggler by just writing "pomes," so I guess we're just semi-considering the two. There's a much better living in the furniture business, specially the way we run it, like the above mentioned Trifles for the 12 bucks. "A Business in Thousands . . . a Profit in Pennies." "Is Humber corny but good, or good but corny?" I always remember what Sir John Martin Harvey od one wite at the Royal. "I never know whether to keep my mouth shut & be considered a fool, or open it & remove all doubt." . . . Curtain.

First Annual Party for Employees' Association

—Colonist Photo.
Oak Bay Employees' Association last night held first annual Christmas party for more than 70 children and parents. Varied program kept youngsters on edge of seats as above picture shows. Reeve Robert A. Wootton is seen surrounded by young guests.

G. I. Edgelow Now Heads Laurier Club

G. I. Edgelow, of Victoria, was elected president of the Victoria and Lower Vancouver Island Laurier Club at its annual meeting last night in Liberal Headquarters.

Hugh R. Stephens was re-elected first vice-president along with W. S. Kirkpatrick, second vice-president, and Jack Maltman, secretary-treasurer.

Directors elected were Arthur H. Cox, G. A. A. Hebden, W. P. Jeune, Carew Martin, Colin Martin, R. D. Matthews, D. J. Proudfoot, E. M. Whyte, and R. D. Worley, Victoria.

Past president J. G Ruttan warned members of the dangers of Communism in Canada, stressing the Liberal Party would have to divert from a path of "compromise" to "positive and earnest action."

He thanked the executive for the co-operation during the past two years and praised the initiative and energy of the secretary, Mr. Maltman.

Many Attend Yule Party

More than 300 persons attended a Christmas Party sponsored by the Strawberry Vale and District Community Club in the Community Hall.

Santa Claus, aided by his son, Nick Junior, distributed many gifts and well-filled stockings of candies and fruit to the younger children.

Entertainment featured carols led by the Strawberry Vale and District Youth Centre and a Punch and Judy Show. Santa departed early to take hampers to elderly members of the community unable to attend.

Local merchants donated gifts, and a committee was made up of Mrs. A. J. Heighes, Edward Williams, Mrs. Pedersen, Mrs. J. Jones and Mrs. C. West.

19,681 Students Aided By D.V.A. in Province

During the past three and a half years 19,681 veterans have taken either vocational training courses or have attended the University in British Columbia with assistance from the Department of Veterans Affairs, officials stated in a report made public yesterday.

"While most of these student-veterans are now finished their training, 645 vocational trainees and 9,493 university students are still drawing this aid," the report stated.

It was estimated some $21,000,000 had been invested in the Province by veterans through the Veterans' Land Act.

MANY CREDITS

"Re-establishment credits for those who did not elect training or Veterans' Land Act benefits, have been spent by British Columbia veterans at the rate of $600,000 a month." It was stated. "Since war's end $27,074,333 in credits have gone into the economy of this Province. The D.V.A. still has in trust approximately $19,500,000 which may be used any time within ten years of discharge.

The report said veterans who went into business for themselves in British Columbia used re-establishment credits amounting to $3,000,000 since the end of the World War. In addition, 619 veterans borrowed close to $1,133,000 from British Columbia banks under the Veterans' Business and Professional Loans Act.

"Every month well over 20,000 pension cheques are mailed to British Columbia veterans disabled in war or to their dependents," it was stated. "In terms of hard cash, this represents an annual payment of nearly $10,000,000."

Need Continue Solarium Aid Hershey Says

Dr. J. M. Hershey, Provincial hospital insurance commissioner, yesterday urged thel community financial support be continued for the Queen Alexandra Solarium. Any thought of withdrawing this aid because of the hospital insurance scheme would be unfortunate, he said.

The primary purpose of the hospital insurance plan, Dr. Hershey said, is to provide care for acute cases in general hospitals only. The Solarium, where the average length of stay of 230 days, is largely a chronic institution, he said.

"Under the circumstances," he added, "assistance given to the Solarium through the hospital insurance service is certain to be very limited. For this reason, public support to the Solarium and similar institutions should be continued on a generous basis.

Notice to Mariners

Mariners are advised that the gas buoy at Haddington Reef, Broughton Strait, B.C., is reported extinguished. T. E Morrison, acting agent here for the Department of Transport, said yesterday this will be relit as soon as possible.

Home Entries Now Total 43

Forty-three homes in the Greater Victoria area have entered the Christmas lighting and decoration contest of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, it was announced yesterday.

Highlight of the event will be the automobile caravan which will follow the judges' car over the planned route.

Motorists who wish to participate in the caravan should be on Dallas Road between Cook and Douglas Streets at 7:30 Thursday.

City police and the Victoria Motorcycle Club will lead the caravan.

Gyro Club Entertains Children

—Colonist Photo
More than 75 children were entertained Monday night at Christmas party sponsored by Victoria Gyro Club. Program included two movies, act by magician, carol singing and Santa Claus. Children above are looking at Christmas tree and waiting for presents to be distributed.

Many Attend Yule Concert At Brentwood

More than 600 children, parents and students met in Brentwood Badminton Hall recently to attend a Christmas concert presented by West Saanich School.

The program featured piano solos, clown drills, jokes, various types of music, skits and plays.

The program was provided by the four divisions of the school directed by E. W. Hatch, Miss J. A. Bailey, Miss P. MacPherson and Miss L. M. McIntyre.

At the conclusion of the program Santa Claus arrived and passed out many gifts. Assisting him were members of the Brentwood P.-T.A., who distributed candy, nuts and oranges to the children and guests.

Billy Ferguson of Grade VI was M.C. for the evening; Miss June Ann Bailey of school staff was accompanist, and A. McLellan of Sidney provided the public address system.

Hazel Decker, Patsy Marsh and Colin and Paddy Patterson acted as ushers and candy vendors, while Eldon Findlay, Raymond and Kenneth Cruickshank, assisted by A. Burdon, handled the tickets.

Announcements

New Princess Vessel Due Here March 12

Marine News

The new 6,000-ton passenger ship Princess Marguerite for the Canadian Pacific Railway's B.C. Coast Service, is due in Victoria March 12, after a 9,500-mile voyage from the shipyards in Scotland, Captain O. J. Williams, manager of B.C.C.S., said yesterday.

The big ship will undergo trials on the Clyde January 26-29 and will sail from Glasgow February 14.

Her sister ship, Princess Patricia, is expected to follow early in April, and will do trial runs starting March 30.

These two vessels, which will augment the international Vancouver-Victoria-Seattle "triangle run" of the C.P.R., have been designed for a speed of 23 knots and will each be able to handle 9,000 passengers on the day run.

They are also equipped with large and modern sleeping accommodation, increased facilities for handling automobiles and spacious public rooms.

They will help provide increased service between the Pacific Coast Mainland and Vancouver Island. The Canadian Pacific Coastal fleet will total 13 ships with the addition of the two new vessels.

Urge Fleet

Construction of a Canadian merchant fleet, with or without the support of shipowners, was demanded by 500 Vancouver shipyard workers.

The men, some working and some unemployed, met to devise ways of aiding hundreds of their number who have been "let out" of West Coast shipyards because there has been no work.

Three Federal Members of Parliament—Howard Green (P.C., Vancouver South), Angus MacInnis (C.C.F., Vancouver East), and James Sinclair (L., North Vancouver), supported the men in their demands.

Among other resolutions, the meeting carried a motion that the Federal Government "instruct the Maritime Commission to proceed immediately with construction of a new merchant marine, with or without the support of shipowners."

Now in Tow

The Greek freighter Triton messaged late yesterday that it has taken in tow the disabled Greek ship Maria Strathatos in the Aleutian Islands and will bring her to Vancouver.

The Triton, with a crew of 40, was due here December 27. The Maria, with 30 aboard, was to arrive Christmas Day but floundered when a storm sheared off its propeller. The trip down will take nine days.

The tug Towac, of the H. R. MacMillan interests, was proceeding from Vancouver to northern waters to pick up the freighter.

Salvage King, of Pacific Salvage Co. Ltd., set out from Victoria Saturday, but was forced to return after being damaged in a storm about 300 miles out.

Near Wreck

A freight train almost caused a "shipwreck" in Vancouver harbor.

Shell Oil Company's new tanker, Western Shell, started under the Second Narrows Bridge. A train started over it.

Bridge attendants didn't have time to raise the span after the train roared across. The tanker's bows stuck under it.

Two tugs finally pulled her free and Capt. James Cates continued the Western on her way to Victoria.

Big Bids

Bids on a $750,000 ship repair job, the largest ever undertaken on Naval Reserve ships in the Columbia River, will be opened Thursday at the Tongue Point naval base, officials announced.

A contract to do maintenance work on 40 ships of the 500-ship fleet reserve will be let, the Navy said. It is double the size of any previous repair job let at the base.

Hits Parked Car; Driver Sought

City police are searching for a hit-and-run motorist who struck a parked car on lower Pisgard Street at 2 a.m. yesterday.

The parked car is owned by J. Law, 1803 Chandler Street. Left front fender of the Law car was damaged considerably.

Police have information which is expected to lead to location of the hit-and-run driver.

Predict Peppery House Session In Wake of Drew's Election

OTTAWA, Dec. 21 (CP).—Political observers look for a peppery session of Parliament in the wake of George Drew's by-election victory in Carleton constituency.

The win gives Mr. Drew a seat in the Commons where he will assume full status as leader of the Official Opposition. With a general election in the offing—possibly next October—he and his Progressive Conservative supporters are expected to belabor the Liberal Government at every turn in the legislative road.

The date for the sessional opening has not yet been disclosed, but it is thought likely that Prime Minister St Laurent will make the announcement within the next day or so. Thursday, January 27, is considered to be the probable date.

The Progressive Conservatives are not alone in bringing a new leader to Parliament.

TWO NEW LEADERS

Mr. St. Laurent himself, though he is no newcomer to the Commons, was elected as Liberal Party chieftain at the national convention here last August. He followed Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King into the prime ministership when Mr. King retired a month ago.

Mr. Drew, formerly premier of Ontario, was selected as Progressive Conservative leader at a national convention nearly three months ago, succeeding John Bracken.

Observers feel that his election as leader, plus the two by-election victories which followed the Progressive Conservative convention, may revitalize the Official Opposition and provide the Government with even stiffer competition in the new session.

Both the Liberals and the Progressive Conservatives take new members into the chamber with them.

NEW MEMBERS

The Progressive Conservatives have Mr. Drew, elected in Carleton yesterday, and George Nowlan, who captured the Nova Scotia riding of Digby-Annapolis-Kings from the Liberals a week ago.

The Liberals will introduce Justice Minister Garson, elected in Marquette yesterday; Leopold Demers, who won yesterday in Laval-Two Mountains; External Affairs Minister Pearson, victor in Algoma East in an October contest, and W. A. Boucher, who took Rosthern riding the same month.

The Commons standing:

Liberals 124; Progressive Conservatives 67; C.C.F. 32; Social Credit 13; others eight; vacant one; total 245.

The remaining vacancy is in Nicolet-Yamaska. No by-election has yet been called for that riding.

Denies Report Plunge Victim Passed Papers

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 (AP).—Whittaker Chambers, admitted former Communist courier, denied today that any secret papers had been passed to him by Laurence Duggan, former State Department official who died in a 16-story plunge last night.

Chambers also said he did not know Duggan. He described Duggan's death as a "shocking thing."

Duggan, 43, a State Department official 14 years and for the last two years president of the Institute of International Education, leaped or fell from a window of his 16th-floor office just off Fifth Avenue.

After Duggan's death, the House Un-American Activities Committee released testimony by Isaac Don Levine, magazine editor and friend of Chambers, bringing Duggan's name into the committee's espionage probe. Levine testified that Chambers mentioned Duggan as one of six persons in the State Department who "at different times passed confidential information along." Levine also said Chambers mentioned Duggan's name "in connection with the transmission of papers."

Chambers corrected this today in talking to reporters outside the quarters of the Federal grand jury here.

"It would be more proper to say that I mentioned six people," Chambers explained. "I mentioned Mr. Duggan. But I did not mention all those people as having turned over those papers. I did not name Mr. Duggan as passing over papers to me."

Mineral Rights on Farm Land Given to Great War Veterans

OTTAWA, Dec. 21 (CP).—The Government gave a Christmas present today to several thousand veterans of the Great War.

It announced that veterans who have paid off or do pay off their mortgages under the Soldier Settlement Act will be granted mineral rights on the properties in all cases where the Government has the rights to give. Deadline for applications is March 31, 1949.

The majority of the men live on the Prairies where the search for oil has made mineral rights a paramount topic.

The act, which once embraced 25,000 men and has cost $100,000,000, now covers 10,000 properties. Mortgages are being paid off on 3,000 of them.

Veterans' officials told a press conference, after the announcement by Veterans' Minister Gregg and Mines Minister MacKinnon, it is impossible to say how many veterans will get the rights, but the number was placed roughly in the "several thousands."

In a lot of cases only extensive research probably would show just where the rights now reside.

The department was starting a check and the veterans or their heirs would be notified. In cases where the rights were outside the Government's control, the veteran would be out of luck. Ottawa had retained mineral rights to the S.S.A. lands in the 1930 transfer of power over natural resources to the Western Provinces.

If a settler had paid off his mortgage and sold the land he still could benefit. If the Government had the rights, he would get them even though he no longer owned the land.

The change would cover all S.S.A. properties from coast to coast but would only matter greatly on the Prairies.

It did not affect Veterans' Land Act settlers of the World War, because they were given mineral rights where the Government had them to give.

In cases where title has not been given, the settler can qualify for any mineral rights by paying off his mortgage. Where the contract is paid up, the settler must make a formal application with $25 for legal and administrative costs.

Papal Message Times Stated

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 31 (AP).—The Vatican radio station said today the Christmas Eve message of Pope Pius will be broadcast in 20 languages.

The Pope will broadcast his message in Italian at 11 a.m. (2 a.m. P.S.T.), Dec. 24, on wave lengths of 13.87 and 31.06 metres.

The English translation will be broadcast on the same wave lengths at 3:30 a.m. P.S.T.

The Vatican radio will broadcast on wave lengths of 31.06 and 50.26 metres the Christmas Mass service at which the Pope will officiate at 3.45 p.m. P.S.T. on December 24.

Three Youths Given Remand

VANCOUVER, Dec. 21 (CP).—Three suspected boy bandits, charged with the $1,000 robbery of the Robson and Granville branch of the Royal Bank of Canada here, were remanded to Friday when they appeared in Police Court today.

The teenagers were George Thomas Wiles, 17; Donald Alfred Symington, 16, both of Vancouver, and George R. van Sickle, 15, of Toronto.

Sickle and Wiles were brought back from Toronto to face the charge. They gave their occupations as stewards.

By-Laws Guard Pedestrians

VANCOUVER, Dec. 21 (CP).—A by-law amendment today made it illegal for citizens to alight from a bus and hop-skip in front of it to cross the street.

Pedestrians also are prohibited from starting across a street from a corner when a bus has pulled up to discharge its passengers.

It's a by-law to protect pedestrians, the announcement said.

CHRISTMAS BARS

HASTINGS, Sussex, England, Dec. 21 (AP).—The boys and girls of Hastings-on-Hudson, N.Y., high school have brightened Christmas for all the school children in Hastings, England.

They sent 6,000 chocolate bars—enough for one for every school child here.
